THEY HUSTLED.

That's What the Council Did at the Meeting Monday Night.

THE ARGO MILL POND AGAIN

A Nuisance, and Health Officer Ordered to Investigate.

The council got a regular hustle on them Monday night and transacted quite a volume of business in about order. For the first time this term Ald. Sessions' chair was vacant.

A petition was received signed by T. G. Richardson and fifteen others requesting the village to tone down the hill at the U. S. fish hatchery, and it was referred to the street committee.

The committee on walks reported that the city attorney had advised the council to go ahead and fix the walk business in front of the hotel and the Ambler property. Thought they might just as well proceed to settle the affair up first as last, no matter if it took a law suit to do it.

Ald. Dolph asked why the coops had not been built across Cady street to connect with South Church street as ordered? Ald. Rayson said the place of crossing Cady street had not yet been decided upon and when council would say where they wanted it, it would be put down.

Ald. Clark thought the proper place to accommodate the greater number of people was at the foot of the hill where it would be just as handy for employees going to the shops to work as coming up town and the walk was ordered so laid.

Ald. Rayson asked for a report from the fire committee. The chairman said he made a report at last meeting but the council didn't seem to be inclined to take any action. He said he had heard nothing from the fire chief elect since and he had been after him long enough and as he appeared to not interest himself in the matter he was tired of chasing him up. It was then voted to elect a new fire chief and A. M. Whitehead was selected.

For the lighting committee Ald. Burgess said he had a talk with Mr. Deal, and the Globe folks, proposed to put up one arc light as a sample, and if it was liked they would make the village a proposition.

Ald. Wheeler reported that the street commissioner would request the people to trim up their shade trees where it had not already been done. Ald's Clark and Dolph suggested he also have some of the street awnings trimmed up while he was about it.

Ald. Clark called the council's attention to the Argo Mill pond nuisance. He said they were drawing the water all out every day or so and it was in a very bad condition. He thought there ought to be a law to prevent them from drawing the water down in this manner, making a sickly smell. The pond was at best an eye-sore but it should not be allowed to be a nose-sore also.

Ald. Burgess said it was certainly dangerous to public health and thought this new wrinkle should be unwrinkled. The health officer was finally ordered to investigate.

The council then adjourned, having been in session less than one hour.

Notice.

Office of Northville Water Board, July 5, 1894.

If water rates are not paid by 10th of this month for the quarter commencing July 1st the inspector will shut the water off, and according to the village ordinances, there will have to be paid to the clerk of the water board one dollar in addition to the water rate before the water can be turned on. There will be no exceptions made to this rule.

Northville Water Board.

A Card.

To those who have so kindly admired to the wants and necessities of the late Amy Sherman we take this method of expressing thanks in her behalf for all the kindness rendered during her long illness.

Those whom she requested to take charge of her house goods, furniture, etc., will sell them at auction on the 14th inst. at her late residence, the proceeds of which, after paying a small indebtedness, will go to the poor fund of the township of Plymouth.

By order of those whom she placed in charge of her affairs.

Around the Country.

Milford will have a new brass band soon.

Ira Daines' Detroit home was destroyed by fire the 4th.

Elyamouth gets 1,204 population on the new census deal, a gain of 32 since 1890.

The Wayne ball club knocked out the Plymouth boys eight to five at the latter place the 4th.

The Ledger says "Dundee brick has a good reputation." How about the fellow who got hit with one of those bricks?

Now that some one has been killed by it, the practice of using it on the streets at Ann Arbor will be quieted pro-tem.

Jas. Slochum, the Holly millionaire and bicycle manufacturer, has this season disposed of three car loads of his celebrated Brewster wheels.

Chas. Ditch, the Wayne undertaker, had a narrow escape from death from blood poisoning last week at Belleville. We learn he is now out of danger.

Lighting instead of temperance reform struck "Jim" Wright's cider mill at Wayne last week and badly shivered up the building. Here is a case of two wrongs for one Wright.

It is stated that immigration to this country has practically come to a standstill, and that as many people have left the United States in the steers as have arrived during the past year. This is certainly good news.

At Northville last week a street "medicines" vendor took to $50 in a short time. There are men who will sneak up the back alley to avoid the editor or the grocer, yet they will step nimbly up to a taxicab wagon and shed a $5 bill for a 50 cent nostrum. Ann Arbor Argus.

The city council has been asked by the board of review of this city to enact a dog license ordinance. The intent is to have a number given with each license granted for the year, and any dog found without his collar and number to be at once executed. To cost $1. Ann Arbor Courier.

The execution?

If Milford excels all other Michigan towns in one way more than another it is in unbalanced ladder climbers. Park Cutting was the tumbler last week, making about the half a dozenth victim this season. Though Cutting fell 25 feet, like all his predecessors he was not seriously injured.

The vaults leading into the big steel safe of the Independent office at Fenton were blown open as well as the money chest last week and $4,000 extorted, a period really belongs in between the first and second cipher.) It is thought that a number of the Jesse James gang are implicated.

As the harvest season approaches the Coxy armies are increasing their efforts to get out of the agricultural districts, where suggestions of labor might reach them. It is a "labor movement" indeed—a big movement to get away from labor, and dead-beat on the public, and the public are just blanketed fools enough to encourage the loafers!

It is a sad state of affairs when the people of Northern Michigan now find time and money enough to conduct a big strike when only last winter they were supplied with food by people all over the southern peninsula to keep them from starving. When they have work, they strike and refuse it and when they have no work they beg food from those more industriously inclined.

It has been estimated that the aggregate loss to miners and operators affected by the recent bituminous coal strike was at least $20,000,000. The strike closed scores of pig-iron furnaces. Thus hundreds of men were thrown out of employment, wives and children have been made to suffer, and business generally lost the money that would have been kept in circulation with work in full blast. The coal strike, like most strikes, was a far-reaching and deplorable piece of folly.

I notice several papers have "hoodlums" the word "Sundayed" and want it stricken from their correspondence, but I agree with the Northville Record that the word is right, no matter what the press says, and why not put a "hed" on other days of the week as well as Sunday? Now how does this strike you?—"Timothy Tickletooth Tuesdayed at Town's Corners"—"Corners Cor. Orion Review."

It's all right old girl. Grates a little now, but we'll get over it in a few days.

We assure the Wayne Tidings that the Record, with our ball club and Northville people generally, greatly admire their ball players, Henderson and Howe, both for their good playing and gentlemanly conduct. The Record has more important business to attend to than entering a controversy over base ball matters. The only thing we objected to was the assertion of "unpleasantly conduct of Northvillians" a false and unwarranted statement on the part of the Plymouth Mail. We also assure the Tidings that "all Northville is not as mean as the Record man" as he hopes.

C. H. JOHNSON, Clerk.

There is less danger in stirring up a nest of real live hornets than in treading on the corns of the base ball editor of the Plymouth Mail. The Northville Record managed it a couple of weeks ago. But it isn't to be supposed by Mail men, figurative speaking, whooped the party with his witty contemporary of the village in the hills. Whether the Record editor will recover sufficiently to get out this week's paper can only be ascertained by awaiting the developments of time.—Wayne Review.

The real question hinges on whether Northville people are a lot of fowdys or whether the Mail reporter is a fantastic prank, and not on base ball points or whether the two Wayne boys played a good game (which they did) or whether any game was played at all.

Obituary.
Born April 17, 1870; died June 22, 1894.

Thus it is our sad task to chronicle the departure from amongst us of Mrs. Fred Fenn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hour, the announcement of whose sudden death caused the most profound and universal expressions of sorrow and sympathy. Sorrow for the loss of one whom to know was to love and sympathy for the bereaved husband and family of the deceased.
Death, come as it may, produces a shock not soon to be over come, but, as in this case, when a perfect picture of health and a living object of happiness is taken from us, with scarcely a moment's warning of sickness to prepare us for such an event. We can but realize that "in the midst of life there is death." From the human standpoint we wonder at the inconsistencies of this life but we are told that the Lord is jealous of his own and chooses the fairest jewel for his crown. We can but seek consolation in the fact that our loss is a bargain and as time softens the pangs of grief it will leave no living sorrow but a sweet and halcyon memory, making us all better for having associated with her and felt the influence of that happy faculty of casting sunshine into the life of every one who had the pleasure of associating with her.
And as our days are not reckoned by their great number but by the good we do while here upon earth and the measure of happiness we bring to others, it can truthfully be said that her life was one perpetual example of love and kindness. Called away as she was in the prime of life, surrounded by a devoted family and large circle of loving friends and with every prospect of a happy lot on earth, seems sad to every human heart, but when we realize that she has been spared the trials and sorrows incident to every life and the burdens that we can not escape it can but remind us that "the Lord is kind."

NOVI.

Haying is well on the way in this vicinity.

Bertha Barnhart went to Milford last Friday.

Miss Belle Francis is quite sick with the measles.

Miss Lillian Tingle spent the 4th at South Lyon.

Bert Hewitt of Northville is painting D. Filin's barn.

C. J. Oldenburg and son of Wixom called on friends Sunday.

Mrs. Bert McCrumb spent the 4th at St. Johns, visiting a brother.

Miss Lillian Kelly of Falmouth is visiting relatives in this vicinity.

A. Kitchy and grand-mother spent a few days last week in Brighton.

Oliver Hammond went to Milford Monday after repairs for his binder.

Miss Mamie Doyle was taken very sick last Sunday but is better at this writing.

It was Harry Williams instead of Clarence that took the prize at the Novi school.

There are 1,311 people in the town of Novi, so says Geo. Hogle and he ought to know.

A. B. Roblin and wife were called to Ortonville last Friday by the serious illness of Mr. R's sister, Mrs. B. Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. John Palmer and Mr. and Mrs. John Leavenworth of Northville took dinner Sunday with Novi friends.

Quite a number of Novi folks are arming themselves against possible small pox, with the assistance of Dr. Johnson.

Miss Lulu Bogart closed a successful term of school at the stone school house last Friday afternoon with appropriate exercises.

W. S. Goodrill and family went to Saginaw to spend the 4th. Will was laid off for some time on account of sick times on the road but expects to resume his position again.

Sam Spencer has purchased a six octave organ of Mr. Springer of Northville. There are several more in the village that are either getting new organs or are exchanging their organ for a piano.

A pneumatic sulky attracted considerable attenda here Tuesday, it being an unusual thing to see one of those odd looking vehicles in this vicinity. They may be very good, but they certainly aren't pretty, at least to unaccustomed eyes.

Myron McCrumb's nose looks as if he had run against something, but after some inquiries it is learned that he was standing in his cart picking cherries and the horses suddenly started up, throwing him out. Not being a very good wrestler he landed on his head, causing several bruises. Say Toot the next time you go picking cherries better keep nearer the ground.

Mrs. Green of Coldwater has just celebrated her 104th birthday. She is still bright and quite sprightly and is probably the oldest person in southern Michigan — Det. F. G. Press.

Beg pardon, Free Press, but Novi has the oldest person (probably) in southern Michigan, or in northern Michigan either. Mrs. Bush of this village is at least 143 years old, and when she starts out to call on her neighbors, which she frequently does, she walks unaided by even a cane.

Apropos of the objection on the part of some of the Beacon's exchanges a few weeks ago to the use of the word "Sundayed," your correspondent hopes that said ex's, Press and Sentinel, will persist in their crusade against the word in question, and we would suggest that the habit of designating clergymen as "the Rev. Smith" or "the Rev. Jones" etc., without inserting the christian name or initials, be obliterated at the same time. (Mr. Editor if this be treason, make the most of it.)

FARMINGTON.

Geo. Whipple of Novi, was in town Sunday.

Miss Lucie Kennedy now clerks in E. C. Grace's store.

The L.U. held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Selby.

Miss Jennie Armstrong has returned to her home in Pennsylvania.

Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Moore spent part of last week with Detroit friends.

Ed. Petterbue is again sick with the measles, his second struggle with them.

Miss Nina Ambler of Northville spent Sunday with Farmington friends.

Services were held Sunday morning and evening in the Methodist church.

Mrs. Chas. Johnson and son of Detroit are visiting relatives in this vicinity.

Mrs. Lena Eisenlord has returned home after passing a pleasant and successful school year at Alma.

Miss Edna Johnson of Clarenceville was entertained a part of last week at the home of the Misses Sowle.

The Farmington friends extend their sympathy to G. C. Nichols in his affliction, the death of his brother Albert of Corunna.

Earnest Sprague left last week to fill his old position as civil engineer on a branch of the Chicago and North Western rail road.

Thanks to the precaution of our health department and the care of our citizens generally, no more cases of smallpox have developed here and all danger is declared passed.

Will Staftoe and wife, formerly residents of Northville, have been the guests of the latter's parents for the past few days. They left Monday for Cassopolis where they will reside.

In speaking of the gifts bestowed to Prof. Lamb in last week's issue it should have stated a $10 gold headed umbrella instead of a cane. It was a mistake of ye correspondent who begs to be excused.

MEAD'S HILLS.

Art Mc. is sick from vaccination.

Some of the little ones in this place are having a tussle with the measles.

Miss Jennie Lautenslager of Rockwood spent the last school days with her sister.

If you chance to see one of our young men who locks and appears lousouse don't appear to notice it.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather, the school entertainment on the 28th inst was not as well attended as was anticipated.

On the afternoon of June 23th, the scholars and friends of Miss Lautenslager met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnson for a farewell visit with Miss E. who has been with us for the last two years and has won for her self hosts of friends, as a teacher and in her social life. About seventy-five were in attendance and after exercises consisting of recitations and singing by the scholars, games played visiting by the older ones, a beautiful repast was partaken of, to which justice was done you can be assured, and as the guests took their departure these words were heard "we are sorry to have you leave us." As a token of respect in which Miss E. is held by our people she was the recipient of a fine gold chain.

SALEM.

Ned Walker spent the 4th at his home in Warren.

Mr. and Mrs. Newell Withee spent the 4th with their daughter in Detroit.

Some of the Salem boys participated in the bicycle races and other sports in South Lyon the 4th.

Rev. A. B. Conrad, wife and daughter of Sand Beach are the guests of Rev. D. H. Conrad and family.

A union gospel temperance service was held in the Congregational church last Sabbath evening. Rev. Shannon delivering the address. Next one will be held in the Baptist church the first Sabbath in August.

Rev. D. H. Conrad will preach a temperance sermon at the Baptist church next Sabbath evening. All are invited. No service at the Congregational church for that evening.

Would a vote of seven for acquittal to five for conviction be considered a clear and unquestioned vindication? Scarcely—such a result from a trial of several weeks, to an innocent man, would be quite unsatisfactory. The fall of men occupying high positions in state and in church is to be sincerely deplored.

Geo. Darkins, half brother of Mrs. Jas. Stanney and Mrs. Fred Firman, formerly for several years a resident of this vicinity, but recently a resident at Whitmore Lake, died at that place early Sunday morning, after an illness of only three or four days with congestion of the bowels. His funeral was attended at the Whitmore Lake church on Tuesday morning, service conducted by the pastor, Rev. H. F. Shier. Burial in the Webster cemetery.

The Gay Conductor.

He was a gay conductor
In his uniform so neat;
He would conductor lady fair
With pleasure to a seat.

Though ladies stepped upon his train
He'd never step on theirs;
And he would kiss and collect his thoughts
And then collect his fare.

He'd sing his waltz and stretch his time
And if his train was long
Then he was surly and would punch
The tickets and his part.

While whizzing by at lightning speed
Past houses, lanes and parks,
He'd first, and like his engine, leave
Behind a train of sparks.

His car had casted him until
An accident befell;
He carried then his scar a while,
But he never could get well.

To mind his train he'd trained his mind
So well that when he died,
The company allowed his ghost
To have a dead-head ride-ride.

spectacle Boston Women.

I strolled through the streets of Boston up Washington and down Tremont. The streets were now filled with busy throngs. A thought struck me. I began looking out for the spectacles on noses, which I had been taught were one of the characteristics of Boston femininity. On a cursory survey, my impression was one of agreeable disappointment. I determined to make the matter a question of mathematics. I would give it a fair trial. I would take the first 250 women I met in Washington street then the same number in Tremont street. There might be some difference in the character of the throngs. I found no essential difference, however. The proportion of spectacled to unspectacled women, counting in all ages, was 1 to 250 in Washington street as against 7 in Tremont street or 15 out of a total of 500 in both streets. I doubt if a lesser proportion could be found in any other American city. These figures cheered me. Another life was saved. The Boston girl might be human after all.—N. Y. World.

St. Patrick.

St. Patrick is reported to have cleared Ireland of vermin. When he came to deal with the serpents, one wily old brute resisted his authority. Superior cunning, however, prevailed; a box was prepared, and the obstinate reptile was persuaded to enter it. Once inside the lid was slammed down, and the receptacle was thrown into the sea. The legend declares that waves are caused by the writhing of the serpent in its efforts to be free, and that the sad sound of the sea is the hissing and moaning of the reptile in its futile protests against imprisonment.

Petrels.

A bird of immense wing power is the tiny stormy petrel, the smallest web-footed bird known. It belongs to every sea, and although so apparently frail it breathes the utmost fury of the storm, skimming with incredible velocity the trough of the waves, and gliding rapidly over their snowy crests. Petrels have been observed 2,000 miles from the nearest land.

A Successful Collector.

Gunter—Hunter intimated that he was a noted collector. Has he any unique collection at his house?

Buntor—Yes, his collection of autographs of private secretaries of celebrities is the largest in the world.—Puck.
