My Mission

I help novelists write the stories they need to tell so their readers can feel seen and can see others.

I believe stories can change the world, one reader at a time, because they teach us to have more compassion for ourselves and others.

Stories are one of our most powerful tools for having less war and more love.

My Goals for Today

- Help you embrace yourself as the most important part of your story
- Give you actionable steps to implement right away
- Leave you feeling encouraged, energized, and connected

Today you will:

- Learn the symptoms of writer's block
- Discover the hierarchy of blocks
- Assess your own block
- Find tools to move beyond your blocks

Checklist to Find Your Level:

Story Level • I need to know more about one or more elements of my story.

System Level • I need to learn more about an aspect of writing or story.
• I need to invite someone else into my story.
• I need a plan for moving forward.

Personal Level • I'm afraid of doing what my story is asking.
• My story is connecting to something painful in me
• Life is making it difficult to show up for my story.
• I feel like my writing will never make it into the world. It feels pointless.
• This story has served its purpose in my life.

Start with the lowest block.

There is no shame in having blocks.

Step Two:
Find the Path Forward

What do you need to move forward?

Story Blocks: Stop Writing and Start Planning

1. What are you trying to say through this book?
2. What's the conflict?
3. How does the book end?
4. What do your characters believe at the beginning and end?
5. What are the rules of your world, tech, and magic?

System Blocks: Get Help

1. Resources – Books, podcasts, workshops, course
 - a. Be watchful for procrastilearning
2. Community – Beta readers, critique partners, writing group
3. Experts – Editor, coach, publishing consultant
4. Support people – Friends, family, therapist

Personal Blocks: Go Inward

1. What am I afraid of? What do I need to move past that fear?
2. Am I able to engage with this topic right now?
3. How can I support myself moving forward?
4. Can I approach the story with curiosity and a sense of playfulness or experimentation?
5. What do I need to give myself permission to do?
