

Search for superintendent ongoing

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

Judging by the number of applicants, the public school superintendent's seat in Grosse Pointe is a much-coveted position.

The Nov. 29 deadline for receiving applications for the post, from which Ed Shine resigned last June 30, is fast approaching.

"Grosse Pointe is a premier district that is of interest to a great deal of candidates," said Carl Anderson, school board vice president and liaison to the Chicago-based consulting firm conducting the search. "We've heard there is a lot of interest in the Midwest, and that includes Michigan, as well as across the nation," Anderson said. "There are some strong candidates looking at the position."

Anderson, who recently has been in contact with Charles Young, of Hazard, Young & Associates, a firm whose principals are former school administrators, said he doesn't know the exact number of applicants at this time. Young told Anderson that he will visit Grosse Pointe in early December to report to the board on the progress of the search.

Hazard, Young & Associates interviewed various segments of the community last summer to gather input to assemble a profile of the kind of superintendent the Grosse Pointe school community wants.

That profile was prepared by the firm.

Teachers still without contract, are planning morale booster

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

Although the Grosse Pointe teachers' union and the school board still haven't reached a labor contract agreement more than two months after the previous one expired, both sides remain optimistic.

Rosalie Bryk, president of the GPEA, the local unit of MEA-NEA Local 1, said the teachers received a financial proposal from the school district last week and in turn countered that proposal and returned it to the school by the end of last week.

"They are still holding firm on cost containment and the insurance cap," Bryk said.

"What we are trying to do is boost morale because many of the teachers are not feeling good. Our test scores are good, and yet it seems as if that's not enough. Some of us are feeling devalued."

"We value our teachers and the other employee groups we are bargaining with," Fenton said. "Our goal is to get a contract. When anything drags out, people get impatient. We have an obligation not only to our teachers but to the taxpayers to work within our means. There are new rules to the game now under Proposal A."

Richner wins 'bittersweet' House victory

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

It was a night of mixed feelings for Elaine Hartmann and Andrew Richner, candidates for the first district seat in the Michigan house of representatives.

Andrew Richner

Richner, a Republican, defeated Democrat Elaine Hartmann by 7,356 votes — 22,093 to 14,737 — only to see the Michigan Republican Party lose control of the state house of representatives.

Hartmann, a retired teacher, said she ran for the seat because she thought it was important for the Democrats to wrest control of the legislature from the Republicans to protect public education in the state.

"I'm thrilled that the Democrats won control of the state house," said Hartmann. "I think it shows that people care about public education in this state. While the election wasn't a victory for me, it was a very good night for my party. I hope Mr. Richner does right by public education and wish him luck in his new job."

Richner, Grosse Pointe's representative to the Wayne County commission, said that he was delighted and honored to have been chosen as the eastside's representative to the state house of representatives. He also commended Hartmann for running an honorable and above-board campaign.

But, Richner admitted, his victory was bittersweet in light of the Democrats wresting control of state house by a margin of 58 seats to 52.

"It was extremely disappointing to learn that the Republicans lost the house," Richner said. "But if there's one thing I can do, it's be a minority legislator. I've been one of only a handful of Republicans on the county commission, so I've learned how to work with the Democrats. Being in the minority means forming coalitions and making compromises."

Richner said that the Republican position in the state house is not nearly as bad as the party's position on the county commission. The state senate is still controlled by his party, and Gov. John Engler is a Republican, so his party's influence on the state level will still be considerable.

"I also want to say that it's an honor to follow in the footsteps of William Bryant, who served in this seat for 26 years, making him the longest serving member of the house at the time of his retirement," Richner said. "That's a legacy to be proud of."

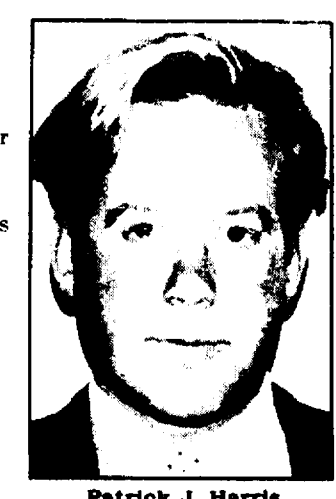

Richner said he spent the first few days after the election going up to Lansing to meet with legislators. He said that newly elected representatives also had a three-day orientation to attend beginning on Sunday, Nov. 10. The class is sponsored by the clerk of the house's office.

"I want to meet on a regular basis with leaders in the community," said Richner. "People involved in small business, education, and health and other areas of interest. This will allow me to keep the lines of communication open and get a better feel of the issues. I think it's important for a representative to keep in touch with his or her constituents back in the district."

Election pleases G.P. Woods mayor

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

All in all, said Grosse Pointe Woods mayor Robert Novitke, the results of the Nov. 5 election were good news for the city.

"For the most part, we got what we wanted," said Novitke. "There were 11 proposals before Woods voters, and the only one that I thought was really important to pass was Proposal 11, which passed 4,442-3,440."

It authorizes the city to issue $4.25 million in bonds to be used to make repairs and improvements to the city's park, Novitke said, and is replacing a 20-year-old bond that was issued to build the Lakefront Park pool in the 1970s.

"The bond won't be issued until the current bond expires in 1997," said Novitke. "That means that local property millages will be unaffected by the issuing of the new bonds."

The next step, Novitke said, is for the council to set park improvement and repair spending priorities.

"We really need a new filtration system for the pool at Lakefront Park," Novitke said. "That is our main priority. The new system, I'm told, will cost at least $500,000."

The city's recreation committee gave the council a "wish list" of repairs and improvements they thought needed to be done in the city parks, said Novitke. Now the council must create some sort of mechanism to review this list to determine which projects are most important and which ones are economically feasible.

"We must do some sort of financial analysis," Novitke said. "There has to be a cost-benefit study so that the money raised will be used effectively. We want input from as many sources as possible, including the recreation committee and the city administration as well as a special city council committee that will be set up to work with them."

As for the rest of the proposals, Novitke said that most passed, but he was surprised that voters rejected Proposal 1.

"This was one of the proposals meant to clean up language in the city charter," said Novitke. "It would have removed language in the charter that allowed the parking of seaplanes and hydroplanes in Grosse Pointe Woods. Since we are a landlocked community, nothing is changed. There is no place to park those types of vehicles. I don't know when the charter was originally written, but I suspect that parts of other city charters were lifted wholesale and used as a guide for the Woods charter, and some of the lifted language included language on the parking of seaplanes."

Woods voters did not approve a couple of proposals dealing with money, said Novitke. They rejected a pay raise for the council and the mayor. The proposal would have increased the payment received for attending regular council meetings, capping compensation at $2,400 a year for a councilmember and $3,600 a year for the mayor.

"It's no big deal that this was rejected," said Novitke. "But I would hope that people understand that we weren't attempting to get rich. No one does this work for the money. There are much easier ways to make $2,400 or $3,600 a year."

Novitke also said that the proposal that would have given the city administrator the right to make purchases up to $15,000, instead of the current $5,000 is slightly inconvenient, but not a problem for the council.

"The reason we put the proposal on the ballot is because, given inflation, $5,000 is a small amount of money these days," Novitke said. "The city manager is still answerable to the city council for any purchases made, whether it's for $15,000 or for $5,000."

Voters did approve the proposal to extend the mayor's term of office from two years to four, as well as several proposals dealing with the language used to describe the city's judge.

The judge is now referred to in the charter as a municipal court judge instead of the justice of the peace.

"I think we've found all the language that needs changing," said Novitke. "I can imagine that we will only be going back to change language if the Legislature changes laws concerning courts."

State law supersedes local law, said Novitke. That's why one of the proposals asked that city charter language concerning the jurisdiction of the municipal court be changed. The charter said that civil cases involving sums of $500 or less were under the jurisdiction of the court.

State law, Novitke said, states that municipal courts have jurisdiction involving sums of $1,500 or less. So the charter had unenforceable language in it. If the state makes similar changes in the future, current charter language might become just as obsolete, necessitating further changes, he said.

Telephone Registration for Spring Semester Begins November 11

Park resident connects with volunteer programs

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

The first time Patrick Harris accompanied a Rainbow Connection volunteer on a "wish delivery" he was hooked.

He went along, out of curiosity, he said, to meet the 9-year-old girl — the "wish maker" so to speak — her family, and the donor who helped make the wish a reality.

The girl, who had a life-threatening illness, wished she could have her own horse to care for and ride, Harris said. A private donation made to the Rainbow Connection paid for the horse and its care at a suburban Detroit stable. On the day of the wish delivery, the donor and benefactor met and the girl's wish was granted. Harris said he was touched by the experience and decided to deliver wishes himself.

"I thought it was such a wonderful thing to do," said Harris, 33, of Grosse Pointe Park, who for the last year and a half has been working as an in-house television producer for Ford Motor Co. at its Dearborn headquarters.

Harris had been volunteering for the Rainbow Connection as a fundraiser for more than a year before he decided to meet the organization's real benefactors.

Harris said that as he got older, he started thinking more and more about donating his time to charity. It's easy to say you don't have the time, he said. Everyone says that. But one night, in the late 1980s, right around Christmas, as he was driving home, a song came on the car radio about "feeding the world." Harris said he realized at that moment that he didn't do anything to help others.

Soon afterward, he began helping out at a Pontiac-area homeless shelter.

Then he heard about the Rainbow Connection.

"Thankfully I've never known anyone or had anyone in my family go through a childhood illness," he said. "It has to be the toughest thing in the world to be sick when you're a child."

The Rainbow Connection is a non-profit Michigan corporation which grants the wishes of children with life-threatening illnesses. It is supported through private donations and fundraisers. It is similar to the national Make-A-Wish Foundation.

Harris said he has delivered 40 wishes in the last year and a half. He said he thought he would stop at 50, but now that he is within 10 wishes of his goal, he wants to keep going. Although participation in the program can be draining emotionally, Harris said he approaches it with an upbeat attitude, because he and the rest of the volunteers are there to provide a bright spot in the wish recipients' lives. The Rainbow Connection grants wishes that are reasonable and achievable. The child must be between the ages of 3 and 18, the illness must be verified by a licensed physician and the child must not have received a wish from any other organization. Wishes range from shopping sprees to brand-new computers and video games. The most popular wish, Harris said, is to go to Disney World. Unusual wishes range from owning a horse or a go-Kart to attending the Detroit Tigers' spring training in Lakeland, Fla., or being in the audience during the taping of the David Letterman show. "When you think about all the hospital costs the family (of a chronically ill child) has, there is just no way they are going to have the money to go to Disney World or for anything else," Harris said. "This is a way for the family and the children to have an exciting moment, a memorable experience to replace all the memories of time spent in the hospital." Harris said children and their families are referred to the Rainbow Connection through a social worker. While he does not coordinate the trips and procurement of items for the children, he arranges the meeting between all parties and announces that the wish has been granted. Afterward he follows up with the families to find out how everything went and if there are any suggestions on how it could have been better.

He has a half-filled photo album with pictures sent to him from the families of the children engaged in their wishes. Most of them are snapshots from Disney World. "The album is not full and if I had a wish, it would be that it never is filled," he said. "We like to call the families and see how they are doing. After a while, it gets difficult to keep it up. You don't know if the child is still alive and you don't want to be intrusive."

Harris, who is a transplanted west-sider, has lived in the Park for the last six years. He grew up in Farmington and studied radio and television production at Wayne State University.

He was a production assistant for the now-defunct local TV show "Kelly & Co." He continues to host "Black Tie Optional," a monthly local access cable show in Farmington which highlights all upcoming charity events. It was through his connections with "Kelly & Co." and Marilyn Turner, who is the Rainbow Connection's honorary chairman, that Harris first learned about the wish-granting charity.

"After the show I was saying I'd like to get involved," he said and immediately was enlisted to help raise money by selling a calendar featuring local celebrity-athletes.

He continued to volunteer for committees organizing fund raising benefits and eventually started delivering wishes.

After "Kelly & Co." folded, Harris worked at other local television stations and then landed the job at Ford, where he is one of the producers of an in-house news program featuring information on health, business and other news of relevance to Ford employees.

Since moving to Grosse Pointe Park, Harris said he has converted; he is now an "east-sider." He loves the Pointes. He likes the easy access to downtown Detroit, the charm of the old neighborhoods and houses, and the less-congested roads and friendly people.

He credits his parents, Fred and Elaine, for instilling in him the volunteer spirit. His dad is a 47th district court judge in Farmington. His mother is a homemaker and active in many church, civic and charitable causes.

For more information on volunteering for the Rainbow Connection or to place a wish, call (810) 783-9777.

'Coattails' net state victories by Democrats

Michigan Democrats rode the coattails of President Clinton and of their senior U.S. senator, Carl Levin, to an impressive series of victories in the general election last week.

They not only gave commanding leads to both Clinton and Levin but they recaptured control of the state House of Representatives and the state Supreme Court, added another congressional seat to their lead over the GOP, and swept the available eight seats on statewide education boards.

These results were not good news to Grosse Pointe Republicans who easily carried their precincts for the president's challenger, former Sen. Bob Dole, as well as for Sen. Carl Levin's challenger, Ronna Romney.

Some Republicans no doubt fear that the election results may have eroded some of the luster from Gov. John Engler's standing in Michigan, and especially in the 10th Congressional District.

There Susy Heintz, the former state GOP chair, had won a personal endorsement from the governor but still lost to Rep. David Bonior, third ranking Democrat in Washington.

In addition, incumbent Rep. Dick Chrysler became an Eighth District GOP casualty to the strong campaigning of Debbie Stabenow, even though Engler's wife, Michelle, chaired Chrysler's campaign.

The governor also had campaigned to retain a GOP House, and had opposed Proposal E, which passed anyway and thus approved establishment of three casinos in Detroit.

Despite their achievements, the Democrats did not produce a new visible state leader of distinction to challenge Engler should he seek a third term two years hence.

Probably the closest thing to such a leader to date is state Rep. Curtis Hertel, who is expected to become the speaker of the new Democratic House, a position he held half the time a few years ago when the two parties shared the leadership.

Will Clinton, GOP cooperate?

Now that the nation apparently has voted for continuation of divided government, the question is whether President Clinton and the GOP Congress will be able to work together to approve the programs the country needs.

Clinton told his press conference last week, and repeated on a Sunday interview on TV, that he was "prepared to reach out and meet them (the GOP Congress) halfway."

In their interviews on TV and radio networks, the GOP leaders in general replied that they were ready to cooperate after they had given the president the opportunity to give them his views first.

But Trent Lott, GOP and majority Senate leader, accused the president of having been "irresponsible" with his campaign charges about GOP plans to cut Medicare.

Lott added that the GOP would like to hear what he has to say because "he has very much dealt with sleight of hand and demagoguery in addressing this issue."

That sounds as if the GOP is not in a cooperative mood. In fact, Lott's words sounded as if he expected the president to get down on his knees to apologize for his exaggerations, while the GOP is unready to admit any exaggerations itself.

If that's the way the future unfolds, each side will be trying to blame the other for continuing deadlock on such measures as balancing the budget, strengthening the financing of Medicare, protecting the environment and other controversial issues.

Perhaps the GOP is just trying to press the president to carry out his pledge to appoint a Republican or two to fill his Cabinet vacancies. But Lott's viewpoint doesn't sound much like GOP cooperation to us.

Pointes win one but lose one

Grosse Pointe Republicans retained their hold on the post of state representative from the 1st District with the election of Andrew Richner of Grosse Pointe Park to succeed Rep. William R. Bryant, who is retiring this year.

But the Pointes weren't so successful seeking to retain the GOP hold on the 1st District's representative on the Wayne County Commission.

Mary Ellen Stempfle, the GOP nominee, who had been serving on the Wayne County Community College board, lost by a fairly narrow margin to Christopher Cavanagh, a brother of the former commissioner.

It is generally believed that the Democrats hold a narrow lead in the number of registered voters in this district.

That means in a presidential election year, and one in which the incumbent president is a Democrat, the Democrats tend to get a greater percentage of their vote than normal to the polls.

Running in the strongly Republican district, Richner won handily over Elaine Hartmann, the Democratic nominee, who made her second unsuccessful bid for that position.

However, as a former public school teacher, she had brought to the campaign her concerns about the future of public education in Michigan that are shared by some Republicans and Democrats.

In Lansing, Richner will still serve in the GOP minority as he did on the Wayne County Commission where he was successful in teaming up with like-minded Republicans and some Democrats to scrutinize and control county spending.

Just what the newly elected Democratic majority will propose in the House in the way of legislation, is not yet known, although it appears that Rep. Curtis Hertel of Detroit will be the speaker of the House.

To President Boris Yeltsin:

This is an informal memo to welcome you to the Zipper Club, the name the Grosse Pointe communities have applied to the kind of heart surgery from which you are now recovering.

The Grosse Pointe communities are five small Detroit suburbs that run north from the metro area's central city along the west side of Lake St. Clair. With a total population of about 50,000, they are aging communities, which explains why they produce more than their share of heart bypass patients.

In fact, I'm writing this memo to you because I underwent the same kind of surgery myself, just two months ago today, on Sept. 12, and I want to pass along to you the kinds of warnings I have received from other local survivors of this operation.

The chief recommendation I have heard was not to push my activities too strenuously as I recuperate. That advice came to me from several friendly survivors, and especially from John Pingel, a former All-American football player at Michigan State University, who underwent the operation several years ago.

At 83, I am older than you are, and I never have had the kind of responsibilities that you have as head of an important state. But if you think about it, you'll realize that newspaper people — and I have been a newspaperman for more than 60 years — often face deadlines which, of course, cause stress.

Another recommendation I've heard from doctors, former patients and other people who know something about this kind of heart surgery is to start walking as soon as you can and then keep it up, walking a bit farther each day. And if it's cold outside, walk in a mall, museum or, in your case, the Kremlin.

You are already deep in winter, as photos indicate, and we soon will be. A nearby city, Cleveland, has been pelted by several feet of snow which ties up transportation movement even in cities as well prepared as Cleveland.

As we await winter's arrival, however, we have enjoyed extremely pleasant fall weather. Even the family of pheasants that lives in underbrush near our home came out to visit our bird feeder the other day.

Perhaps even more impressive, a flock of Canada geese ranged along the edge of Lake St. Clair for several days before continuing their long flight to their southern home.

This note is not intended to make any points, except for offering you our warnings about your recuperation period, and except to express our best wishes for your own political future as well as your own physical well-being following your recent heart bypass surgery.

— Wilbur Elston

Stempfle says thanks

To the Editor:
Thank you to all the volunteers and supporters who worked on my campaign for county commissioner. I am deeply grateful and appreciative of every one of you. While I won overwhelmingly in all of the Grosse Pointes, I was not able to overcome the straight Democratic vote in Detroit. Once again, thank you. I shall continue to represent you as trustee on the Wayne County Community College board and best wishes to Mr. Cavanagh.

Crossing guards deserve more pay

To the Editor:
In rain, sleet or snow — in all weather conditions crossing guards are out there. We deserve a pay raise in proportion to the rate of inflation. It has been five years since the last pay increase.

This raise will keep crossing guards on the job and, consequently, police officers will be used more efficiently in other areas.

We feel as though we go above and beyond the call of our duties. One example of this — crossing young people at a busy intersection after quitting time. To add to this, we have the problem of dealing with irate drivers who do not want to stop for the kids, let alone anyone else.

It is a pleasure to assist in the crossing of the young men, women and children of Grosse Pointe Woods. Therefore, give the crossing guards a well-deserved raise, as we have a genuine concern for all of your children. Can you put a price on safety?

Adult soccer tried

To the Editor:
In his letter of Nov. 7, Mr. Alexander Mochtchouk expressed his desire for a Grosse Pointe adult soccer league. He cited the many programs offered by the Neighborhood Club, and questioned why adult soccer was not among them.

Last year 2,202 children from ages 4-13 played on 182 teams. Overall, our soccer, basketball, volleyball, in-line skating, hockey, floor hockey, T-ball, softball and lacrosse youth leagues involve 5,500 registrants.

In addition, more than 1,275 adults play in Neighborhood Club basketball, touch football, softball, baseball and volleyball leagues.

We tried to start an adult soccer league on a number of occasions, most recently in the fall of 1994. To our disappointment, not enough interest was generated to form a league.

In our continuing commitment to respond to community needs, we invite Mr. Mochtchouk and other adults interested in forming a soccer league to contact us at (313) 885-4600.

'Union "salt"' op-ed misleading

To the Editor:
I read with interest last week's Op-Ed piece titled "Union 'salt' poisons the well." The article was written by George C. Leef, who identifies himself as an adjunct scholar of the Mackinac Center for Public Policy.

His basic argument is that the Supreme Court rendered a bad decision which now permits unions to unfairly harass small employers who are now blackmailed by the NLRB over hiring practices.

The Mackinac Center is a business lobbying group fronting as a think tank. Its "scholars" have been chiefly noted for their psychic ability to write their right-wing conclusions before they conduct their studies.

The unanimous Supreme Court decision at issue is NLRB v. Town and Country Electric Inc. decided one year ago. From its passage in 1934, the National Labor Relations Act has prohibited employers

Can I achieve what my parents have?

When I was growing up on LaSalle Place — where I lived essentially full-time from birth through college graduation — I had a lot of terrific adults around me to be my friends and role models.

The best of these were my parents.

My Dad, who died in 1985, was a pediatrician. He truly loved all kids, most of all his four children. He loved being involved in our lives. My dad went out of his way to be a friend to kids.

For example, at my dad's funeral, several teenagers who had been patients of my Dad's, told me he wrote or telephoned them at college after they expressed their concerns relating to adjusting to freshman year.

Similarly, my Mom, who teaches first grade in a Detroit public school, has an endless capacity to love kids. She anguishes over each student's progress all school year.

My siblings and I agree our parents were a great team. Mom and Dad always seemed so happy to be a part of our lives. Mom read to us as kids, attended our various sporting events, and was always a willing and enthusiastic audience to puppet shows and plays we staged, as well as every cannonball and jack knife dive we performed into the Farms Pier Park swimming pool.

In addition to my parents, there were a number of kind adults on LaSalle Place.

And there were the Dorseys who lived on Kerby Road at the foot of LaSalle Place.

The Dorseys are legendary.

While they never had children of their own, they could consider themselves friends to hundreds of children.

For about two decades, they hosted an annual Christmas party for about 100 neighborhood children.

Dr. Edward Dorsey would play their grand piano, and wife Patricia would lead us in singing.

Bingo games took place upstairs, and ping pong matches were played on the porch, as were jacks.

Moreover, the Dorsey's home was open to kids year round.

Last month, Dr. and Mrs. Dorsey celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary.

Rather than taking a trip-for-two somewhere, they decided to throw a reunion party for all the neighborhood "kids."

It was quite a sight.

For example, the Smith "kids", formerly of Cambridge Road, traveled from their current northern Michigan and Upper Peninsula homes to attend. In tow, were their children ranging from infant to teenager.

In the hundreds of photos the Dorseys had on display, Coleen Smith found quite a few of herself, including one where she, other neighborhood teenage girls, and a young Mrs. Dorsey, were doing cartwheels across the Dorsey's front lawn.

I found a photo of me posing with the Dorseys and the pillow I sewed during my seventh grade home economics class at Brownell. The pillow was a blue and yellow roller skate, although it looked more like a shoe. It was to honor Mrs. Dorsey who ran her first Detroit Marathon in 1979; her tennis shoe was blue and yellow. They proudly showed to me that they still have the pillow I made.

Mike Ottaway, who lived on the corner of Grosse Pointe Blvd. and Old Brook as a child, stopped by with stories about an advertising career, as well as reports of successful careers and growing families of his sister, Amy, and brother John who could not attend the reunion.

Amy Hartmann, who grew up on Kerby a few houses away from the Dorseys, attended the Punching in at the park

Patterson Park gate guard Beth Johnson's eyes widened and she smiled when I flashed my park pass — the one whose guest punches were almost maxed out this summer.

"Oh, you've been socially active this year, sir," she said. "That's good to see."

It was a hot time that cold Sunday in the park, with Beth's counter reading 285 visitors at 4:45 p.m. (the previous Sunday only nine came by the whole day).

What made the difference? Probably the frosty new refrigerated ice rink, which city manager Dale Krajniak and public services director Muzaffar Lakhani had just started spraying water into on Saturday.

They had some expert help: The Woods' Al Sabotka, who keeps the ice nice for the Red Wings at Joe Louis Arena, was there volunteering his advice on how to prep the best skating surface.

They must have got it right the first try. When FYI checked back the next day, there were 40 skaters whizzing around and having a great time.

— But how are you going to get the Zamboni over that 10-inch curb, I asked Dale. (Yep, they've really got one, used but serviceable).

"We're building a ramp," he said.

At least there shouldn't be an octopus problem: The entrance to the rink has a big sign that says NO HOCKEY.

State universities are failing our students

Declining academic standards and questionable teaching methods at Michigan public universities produce poorly prepared K-12 teachers and graduates in other fields, according to a study released recently by the Mackinac Center for Public Policy.

Based on employer surveys, K-12 student test scores, teacher training studies, and an analysis of over 300 course syllabi from all 15 state university campuses, the study found that graduates lack many basic skills that employers require, and that aspiring K-12 teachers do not get the training necessary to prepare their students for college or work.

Study author Dr. Thomas F. Bertonneau, a Mackinac Center adjunct scholar and an English instructor in Central Michigan University's Extended Degree Program, traces the failure to adequately prepare graduates to many factors. Among the most significant, the study concludes, are the general demise of the core curriculum and the widespread replacement of traditional methods of teaching English composition courses with the "process approach."

The core curriculum, once common on Michigan campuses, is a set of courses that all students took to become generally educated, including history, literature, language, and the sciences. The "process approach" to English composition places less emphasis on formal grammar and study of classical literature than the traditional approach to the course.

Bertonneau said, "Students need to be well-grounded in formal grammar and classical literature, and the 'process approach' fails to provide these. Proper instruction in English composition is critical because that course, more than any other, should teach students how to communicate clearly, to interpret complex concepts, and how to reason in order to separate fact from fallacy. Poor instruction in this course adversely affects a student's entire education."

Another problem cited by the study is indoctrination in the classroom. "The core curriculum has been replaced by a smorgasbord of trendy courses which often push a political agenda. Students who haven't been taught how to reason well or argue effectively are ill equipped to challenge questionable course content," said Bertonneau.

Even instructors are subject to political pressure, according to the study, which cites a Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching survey indicating that 34 percent of U.S. academic professionals perceive there to be political restrictions on what they may publish.

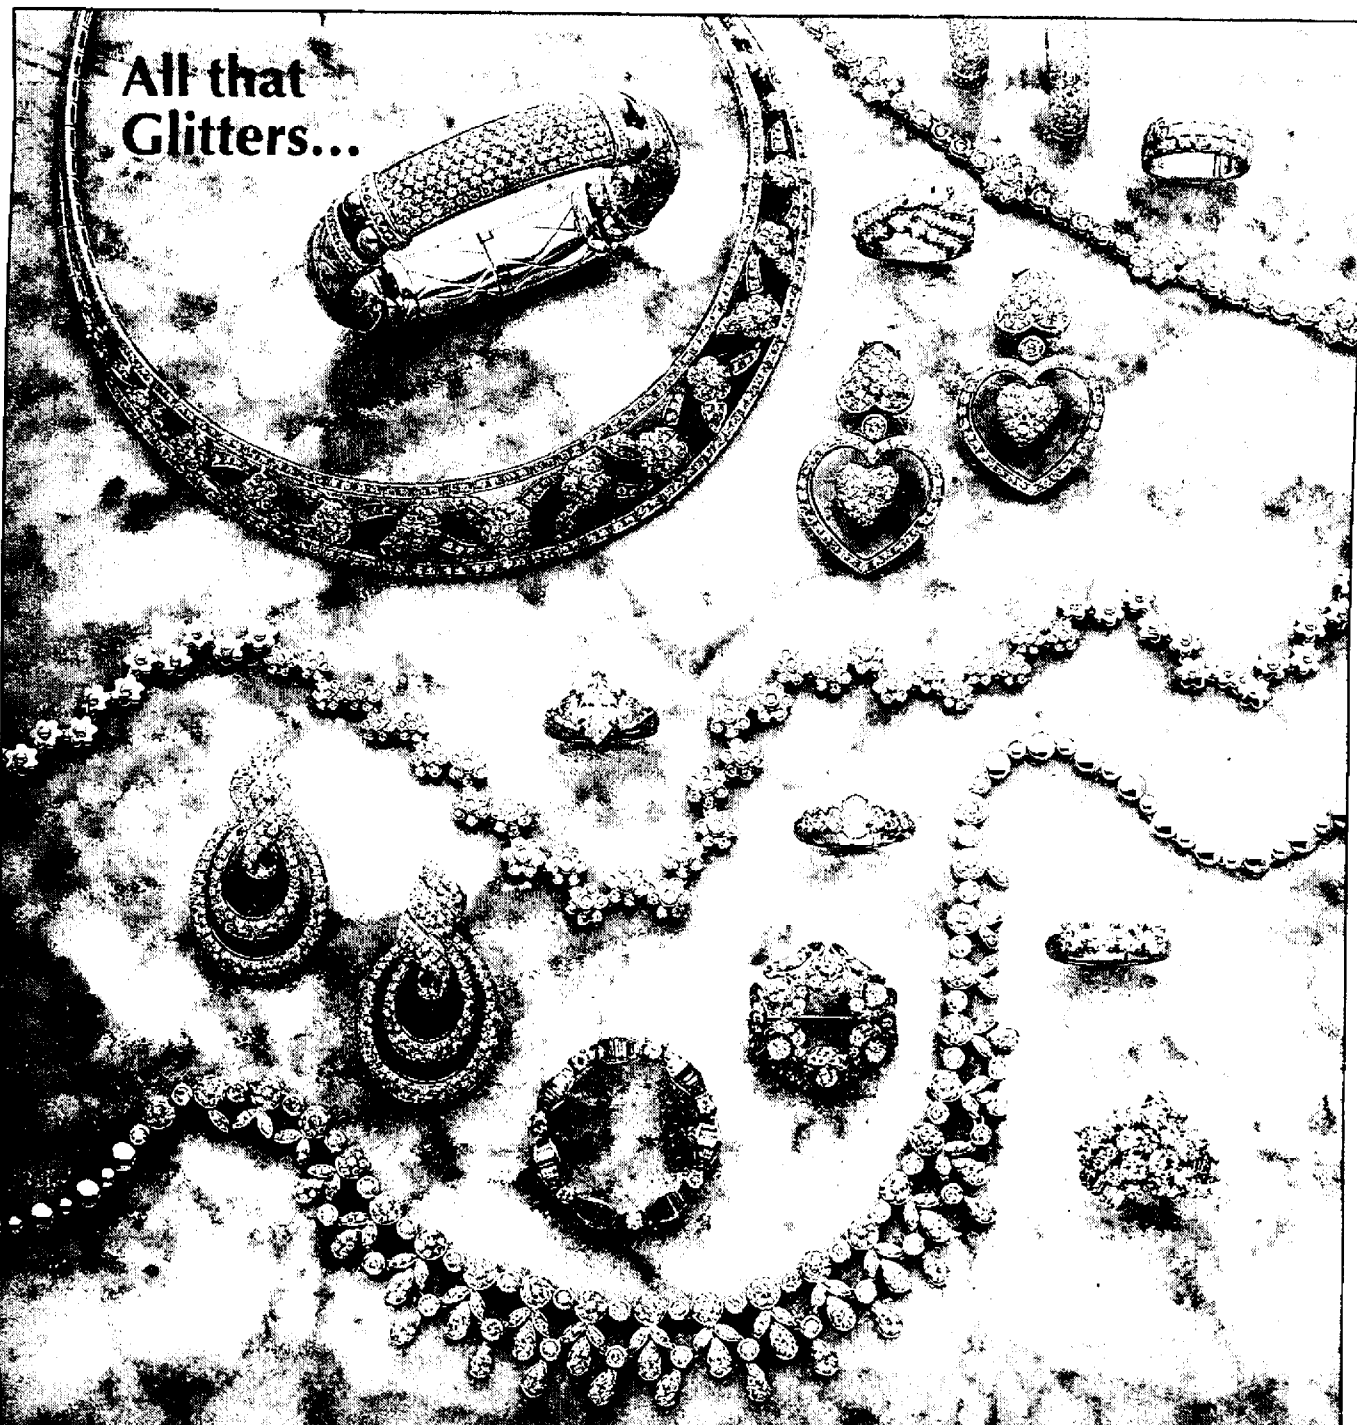

The study cited a survey which found that only 20 percent of employers rated new college graduates "adequately prepared," tests of Michigan high school students in which fewer than half the students scored "proficient" in several subjects, and a study which indicated that thousands of Michigan high school teachers lacked college training in their fields.

Bertonneau said, "Less rigorous ways of teaching basics such as composition, coupled with the erosion of the core curriculum, are shortchanging students and future teachers. We are producing graduates who lack the skills employers need, and teachers who are unprepared to teach young people."

The study recommends ways for parents, administrators, instructors, alumni, and employers to help universities better equip new teachers and other professionals to compete in the global marketplace:

- Conduct a public side-by-side trial to determine which method of teaching English composition — the traditional or process approach — produces the highest student achievement. CMU associate from discrimination based on union membership. The question was whether union members or paid union organizers could be considered as employees entitled to the protection of the NLRB.

Town and Country had refused to even interview 10 of 11 applicants who had responded to a job advertisement because they were members of a union. Leef claims the provision in the federal statute is "quite ambiguous," and the court's decision was "hostile to freedom of association and quite unscrupulous to the legal process."

What is ambiguous about a provision which specifically prohibits "discrimination in hiring" based on union membership? A unanimous pro-worker decision by a rather conservative Supreme Court only shows that even someone like Clarence Thomas (a.k.a. Bush's revenge) could not find a way to let his ideology "interpret" the statute.

The civil rights laws of the '60s and '70s trace their origins to the NLRA and similarly prohibit employment discrimination based on race, sex, religion, national origin or disability. Freedom of association is not absolute in our society. The various civil rights laws also restrict those who want the "freedom" to discriminate.

Leef also claims that the NLRB permits unions to pursue frivolous cases to litigation — which compels employers to settle to avoid defense costs.

The NLRB investigates charges before it authorizes complaints, issuing complaints in less than one in three cases. Complaints that are litigated have an 85 percent conviction rate. The two employers mentioned by Leef settled with the NLRB rather than litigate because, like Town and Country, these employers were probably guilty of refusing to hire union job applicants.

There is at least one sentence in Leef's propaganda piece with which I can agree: "There is a question of justice." The public policy of the United States, as expressed in the preamble of the NLRA, is to "encourage the practice and procedure of collective bargaining." Enforcing a 60-year-old law prohibiting employer discrimination based on a union membership is a rather obvious application of justice.

Woods EMS appreciated

To the Editor:

Perhaps this letter is long overdue. However, I would like to thank the Grosse Pointe Woods EMS (personnel) for their tireless efforts to respond so quickly and arrive at our home to transport my mother for her emergency visits to Bon Secours Hospital. Not only were they kind and compassionate, but I felt they were caring for my mother as though she were their own.

Also, preceding their visit, the Grosse Pointe Woods police would arrive in minutes to aid in any way they could. I have the utmost respect for them, and would like to publicly thank them and the EMS. I don't know what I would have done without them!

Basic cable?

To the Editor:

There is an old adage that if you can't be rational, dazzle and confuse them with statistics.

That appears to be the thrust, by Diane Dietz and Brian Kenna, in attempting to justify the continued cable rate increases. Interestingly enough, upon phoning the Comcast 800 number to complain, I was told that I qualified for a 10 percent senior discount but would have to go to the Roseville office on Pleasant Street to sign an application.

Upon arriving there, I was rather rudely told there was no senior discount and that the other Comcast employee didn't know what he was talking about. So much for the right hand knowing what the left hand is doing!

Comcast appears proud of the increase in channels from 53 to 55. Big deal! Would Comcast be interested to know, or admit, that the majority of channels is senseless garbage that no one in his right mind ever watches?

I, with many others, will happily surrender at least 30 of these channels for a rate reduction. Unfortunately, we have no choice inasmuch as no other cable company is allowed in our area.

Incidentally, my lowest basic cable rate is $28.33, not $26.82 as stated in the Grosse Pointe News. So, it appears that if you want cable TV, you are stuck with Comcast Cable Co. — for now. Unless, of course, you are tired of endless greed and get mad enough to pull the plug and go shopping for a satellite dish!

Next stop, Radio Shack.

Character counts

To the Editor:

Your editorial in the Oct. 31st edition of the Grosse Pointe News, with the headline, An explanation for Dole's failing, was one of the most absurd opinion pieces that I have ever had the misfortune of reading. I was very disappointed in your editorial staff for printing such nonsense.

Is it really your opinion that because a public servant who has served his country with the distinction of a man like Bob Dole should be limited to a legislative role simply because of something Harold Stassen said 50 years ago? How preposterous can that be? That was merely Harold Stassen's opinion about himself. It shouldn't be applied to others like Bob Dole by an editor of a newspaper with a political agenda.

But to conclude your editorial by saying that "it is sad to see him, Dole, demeaning himself and his record by attacking the president and charging that the news media and the American people are at fault for letting Clinton get away with the wrong-doing that Dole charges him with," was what caused me to write this letter. I suppose that you agree with all of those voting for Clinton that all of the evidence of wrongdoing by the president, his wife and his administration shouldn't be a legitimate area of public debate when it comes to deciding the man we want to lead this great country. You probably agree with those who say that character doesn't count when we elect the leader of the free world.

Well, I'm voting for Bob Dole regardless of your silly editorial. I believe that he would make a fine president. At least I know that he would never make me ashamed that I voted for him, win or lose!

Well done planters

To the Editor:

Returning to Grosse Pointe this fall after being gone most of the summer, I couldn't help but notice how lovely Lakeshore looked, especially from 8 Mile to Fisher.

The new trees replacing those that died, the flower beds with lovely varieties of flowers, the sprinkler systems to keep it all green and healthy. It looked like it did years ago, before there was so much traffic.

I understand that the Grosse Pointe Shores, City and Farms beautification commission are responsible for all this. I think they should be congratulated and know how we all notice and appreciate their efforts.

New commissioner to focus on environment, education, blight

By Amy Andreou Miller
Staff Writer

Democrats recaptured the commissioner seat vacated by Republican Andrew Richner. But just like Democrats at the national level, such as newly-re-elected president Bill Clinton, promise a new era of Democrats and Republicans working together as allies not adversaries, so does new Democratic commissioner Chris Cavanagh.

Nevertheless, Cavanagh said he appreciates being apart of the solid majority Democrats have long enjoyed among the county commission offices. Now, thirteen of the 15 commissioners are Democrats.

Richner went on to successfully capture the open state representative seat vacated by retiring representative Bill Bryant.

Cavanagh naturally thanked the voters and his campaign workers for helping him be victorious over his opponent Mary Ellen Stempfle. He won 25,900 votes to her 23,031 votes. He did particularly well in securing votes from the district's Detroit residents. The district includes all five Grosse Pointes, Harper Woods, and a portion of northeast Detroit.

"The most important thing I learned from my father (a former Detroit mayor) is that a politician is just someone who brings people together," Cavanagh said.

He said he hopes to do that, adding that he will have an "open door" policy. He encourages all constituents to stop by his commissioner's office on Randolph in downtown Detroit, which he will officially occupy after Jan. 1, 1997.

He said, although, that he has already begun to work.

"I went to work the day after I won the race. It was a combination of me telephoning, or being telephoned by, the other commissioners and the county executive" just to say 'welcome' and talk a little bit, Cavanagh said.

His immediate goals include following through on a number of projects he said he often talked about during the campaign.

Those including, making leaders of constituent cities aware of the latest technology in environmental chemicals, both for prevention and reaction to spills of hazardous materials.

"I am really excited to bring this to district one," he said. "We don't want to be flushing hazardous materials into our sewers."

It is much cheaper to exercise prevention and protect our environment than it is to remediate a negative environmental situation, he said.

Secondly, he said he wants abandon buildings not only torn down, but the debris taken away.

"Many abandoned buildings have been torn down, but not hauled away. These piles of rubble are more dangerous than leaving the dilapidated abandoned buildings standing,

Nissan's Pathfinder satisfies need to be 'with it'

Remember how nifty it felt once upon a time — or was it yesterday? — to finally get something that was really popular? Just the right pair of loafers? A coat like everyone else's? Maybe it was a do-everything lawn mower or a 32-foot speedboat.

We climbed aboard something trendy a couple of weeks ago and felt like we fitted right in. At last. Even if only for a few days.

Our temporary possession was a black 4-door Nissan Pathfinder. With this mid-size sport utility, complete with encased spare tire on the back, we proudly took our place in the considerable traffic returning from a gorgeous weekend up north.

Hey, we fit right in. Not only on the light-truck-infested highway, but also at some ports of call en route.

Ours was one of several sport utilities in the parking lot at the Ranch Rudolf stables east of Traverse City. Granted, we had some trouble walking back to it with any measure of grace after an hour out on the trails on our well-kept mounts. But even hobbling, we felt like one of the gang.

Except that we were maybe twice as old as many of the other equestrians.

One of the few problems with a trendy vehicle might be finding your sport utility among the sea of trucks in so many parking areas. Kind of like finding your own shiny brown leather loafers on the gym locker room floor.

For this dilemma, we offer no solution. There is some solace in knowing that the marketplace is full of well-made sport utilities — from more sources than loafers makers in the footwear industry.

And because competition is so intense, products tend to be sturdy and dependable. No one wants bad press, or to be seen parked beside the highway with the hood up.

The new Pathfinder does not disappoint. It's nothing radical, but a pleasing vehicle with suitable 168-hp 3.3-liter

Autos

V-6 engine, comfortable seats, 4-wheel-drive option, power amenities. One of the things I recall from my earliest days driving Nissans (they were Datsuns then!) was how quiet they were.

The little sedans and coupes seemed incredibly nimble, if perhaps underpowered, compared with the heavy-duty stuff we were accustomed to from Detroit-bred assembly lines.

Turned out the pocket-size Datsun B-210 or larger 510 sedan always got you where you needed to go, dependably and very economically — and quietly.

Driving a Pathfinder is not going to be as economical as a little Nissan Sentra, for example. The Pathfinder is powered by a quiet V-6, which comes with either a 5-speed manual or 4-speed automatic transmission. EPA numbers for the Pathfinder are: 17 mpg city and 20 mpg highway with the 5-speed manual.

Just for fun, here are numbers for the Nissan Sentra/200SX with 5-speed manual: 30 mpg city and 40 mpg highway.

Speaking of transmissions, with the 5-speed manual one may want to wear a right-arm elbow pad.

As is the case with many, many vehicles we have driven, the lid on the blasted center console is right in line with your elbow.

So every shift into second, fourth or reverse creates a collision with the center console. Nissan is not alone in this design shortcoming. Guess basically I'm puzzled by center consoles anyway.

Another criticism that again is of a design feature that several vehicles share is the one of poor side visibility.

Even with outside mirrors well-adjusted, there are blind areas that only a look over the shoulder can access. And that view is obstructed in the case of the Pathfinder by the wide pillars between front and rear passenger windows, plus the front passenger headrest.

Be careful when making lane changes in this one. Pathfinder offers a 2-wheel-drive model and a 4-wheel-drive option. The 4-wheel-drive version has a shift-on-the-fly transfer case which allows the driver to move from 2-wheel to 4-wheel drive at speeds up to 50 MPH.

Just why one would want to make that change at such speeds is unclear and I've never read anything about the consequences, for example, a distinct feeling of power being transmitted to all wheels, or the change not taking place at higher speeds. We didn't try it this time.

According to Nissan's literature, Pathfinder has a heavy-duty strut-type front suspension to improve rebound control for better tire contact with the road and greater passenger comfort on and off-road.

The rear suspension design has springs and shocks placed outboard for stability and to further control any body roll.

Four-wheel anti-lock brakes are standard on every 1997 Pathfinder.

Light trucks typically have offered rear ABS. Nissan says that when Pathfinder is driven off-road, a special G-sensor reads the road surface and adjusts braking control for special surfaces including gravel and sand.

The 1997 Pathfinder features a MonoFrame unibody platform with more than twice the bending stiffness of the previous generation model.

Available options and equipment packages offered with Pathfinder XE include air conditioning, outside spare tire carrier, sport package and a convenience package that includes power remote-controlled windows, door locks, heated outside mirrors, cruise control and a roof rack.

The SE model is available only in 4-wheel drive and has aluminum-alloy wheels, fender flares, special seat material and cargo area cover. Standard SE equipment includes cruise control, power windows and doors, remote keyless entry, a vehicle security system and driver's seat lumbar and height adjustments.

The top-of-the-line LE model offers both 2-wheel and 4-wheel-drive versions plus all the bells and whistles above. A power sliding glass sunroof and power front seats can be ordered in a luxury package for the LE.

Pathfinder is available in colors including: Neptune blue, cayenne red, mahogany pearl, Sahara beige, cobalt green pearl, rain forest green pearl, super black and cloud white. Interior design comes from Nissan Design International in La Jolla, Calif.

Pathfinder prices run from about $22,500 for a 2-wheel-drive XE model to around $32,500 for a 4-wheel-drive LE.

Nissan's 1997 press notebook included a magnetic square suitable for any refrigerator or other metal surface with these whimsical thoughts: Those who doubt the concept of eternity have never taken a road trip with a 3-year-old; In a million years, will bugs evolve a way to bounce off windshields? Or will they simply learn not to fly near highways? Without cars, how would the world know your child is an honor student? The Earth spins at 1,000 miles per hour; please wear your seat belt; Without cars, how would shopping carts stop? Maybe traffic jams happen because cars like to be with other cars.

Nissan has rounded and slicked-up its Pathfinder mid-size sport utility, increased interior space and now invites buyers to put the 3.3-liter V-6 under the hood to the test.

Winter hazards awareness week is in full bloom

To focus attention on winter safety precautions, Gov. John Engler has declared Nov. 10-16 as Winter Hazards Awareness Week in Michigan. According to the Michigan Committee for Severe Weather Awareness, residents are encouraged to be prepared before a winter storm occurs.

It doesn't take record-breaking low temperatures or mountains of snowfall to make winter in Michigan dangerous. Abrupt changes in weather that come with the usual parade of winter storms are enough to turn enjoyment of the season to tragedy.

Last winter brought heavy snowfall to much of the Upper Peninsula and parts of northern lower Michigan. Several areas in the Upper Peninsula experienced over 300 inches of snow, which was more than 100 inches above normal. This winter, everyone in Michigan should expect and prepare for periods of heavy snow and bitterly cold winter weather.

According to members of the Michigan Committee for Severe Weather Awareness, early season snowfall catching motorists off guard, fierce winds that often bring heavy snows near the Great Lakes shores, and wet snow or freezing rain that snap tree limbs and power lines are a few examples of how lives can be disrupted and endangered with little notice. Some dangers persist even under clear skies, such as bitter wind chill temperatures and flooding that develops when ice jams form on rivers and streams.

Whether traveling in the state for the holidays or simply commuting across town to work, snow and ice are always forces to be reckoned with. If you are resting at a hunting camp in the woods or shoveling snow in the city, bitterly cold air is a common enemy that can deplete your energy.

"Now is the time to prepare for the unexpected," Gary Campbell of the National Weather Service and member of the Michigan Committee for Severe Weather Awareness, said. "There is no need to be caught by surprise no matter how winter tries to sneak up on us."

The Severe Weather Coalition suggests keeping emergency supplies in the home and automobile. Those supplies should include first-aid kits, battery-powered radios, flashlights, extra batteries, matches, blankets, warm clothes and nonperishable foods. Problems while traveling can be avoided by keeping vehicles properly maintained and filled with fuel. Residents should always check the weather forecast before leaving home and take note of advisories, watches and warnings.

A winter storm watch indicates that severe winter weather conditions may affect your area. A winter storm warning indicates that severe winter conditions are imminent and you should take immediate precautions.

A snow advisory is issued when three to six inches are expected in a 12-hour period. In the Upper Peninsula, it would result when four to eight inches of snow is anticipated in that same time period.

A wind chill advisory may be issued when strong winds increase the danger of exposure to cold air.

If residents have to go outside during severe winter weather, they should wear loose-fitting, light-weight warm clothing in layers.

Outer garments should be tightly woven and water repellent, and they should wear a wool hat and mittens. It is important to avoid overexertion, such as shoveling heavy snow, pushing a car or walking in deep snow. Sweating from these activities could lead to chill and hypothermia.

HOW TIMES HAVE CHANGED

Traditionally, drivers have been urged to grip the steering wheels of their cars at the "ten" and "two" positions, with the numbers referring to the spots they occupy on the face of the clock. However, one look at today's steering wheels reveals that this hand positioning is no longer appropriate. Over the past 50 years or so, the average height of the driver's seat has dropped fifteen to nineteen inches, while the steering wheel has been lowered twelve to fourteen inches. The cutouts to either side of the hub of the steering wheel now indicate that the left hand should be positioned between 7 and 9 o'clock, while the right hand should be placed between 3 and 5. This lowered positioning is easier on the shoulders and helps reduce fatigue. The revised grip also keeps the hands away from the center of the wheel so they will not be thrust into the face by airbag deployment.

Whenever you drive, you are more apt to make good decisions if you are relaxed. At RINKE TOYOTA, you'll like the way we do business because we put the customer first. At our shop, you'll find uncommon courtesy and the utmost in respect for your requests for service and automotive care. Visit us at 95490 Van Dyke. Phone: 758-2000. We are glad to explain thoroughly the work completed.

Park begins berm work along flood plain

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

After three years of planning and tangling with federal bureaucracies, construction of berms designed to protect Grosse Pointe Park's flood plain area began last week. The project, said Park city manager Dale Krajniak, has been in the planning stage for the past three years. The Park's plans had to be reviewed by the proper federal agencies, including the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA).

Each time the city made a modification of the plan to meet federal requirements, the newly revised plan had to be resubmitted to the feds, said Krajniak. That process took time.

"We are currently working with all affected property owners to set up a construction schedule," Krajniak said. "Construction should take four to eight weeks, depending on factors like weather and access to residents' yards."

The city will build a series of berms along the lakefront, said Krajniak. These berms are designed to keep water out during periods when the lake level is higher than normal.

"Right now there are sections of the city between Jefferson and the lake that are in what the federal government has determined is a 100-year flood plain," said Krajniak. "What that means is that those areas will be flooded once every 100 years. These berms will make the flood plain a 500-year plain. What that means is that those areas, on average, can be expected to be flooded once every 500 years."

With the "upgrade," Krajniak said, flood insurance will no longer be mandated by the federal government. Currently, all residents living in the areas designated as a flood plain are required by the federal government to have flood insurance. Once these berms are completed and FEMA gives final approval, insurance will be optional.

The berms will not eliminate the possibility of floods, Krajniak said. But they will greatly reduce the chances of a flood occurring.

"These last nine months have been busy ones for the city," said Krajniak. "We had to take soil borings, modern and accurate topographical maps of the lakeshore had to be made and additional design changes related to soil erosion control had to be incorporated into the design."

But, Krajniak said, the time for planning is past, and the city has finally been able to take action. The project is expected to cost less than $50,000. But before resident cancel their flood insurance, FEMA must give its final approval, which will come after the berms are built.

Patterson Park skating rink gets a test tryout

By Jim Stickford
Staff Writer

Grosse Pointe Park residents who like ice skating will be pleased to know that the Patterson Park ice rink, which began construction late last year, had its first tryout on Sunday, Nov. 10.

"We decided to test the ice rink last weekend," said Park city manager Dale Krajniak.

plus a pile of rubble invites public dumping," Cavanagh said.

"And after we tear down, and haul away, then we can work on redeveloping those areas." He said education will also be among his top priorities.

"We have to get kids to stay in school and keep learning. We need to provide incentive for staying in school. The incentive is to raise the kids' hope for a better world after they graduate from high school. Providing them the opportunity to gain computer "Skating on the rink and reflecting pond was allowed for the first time on Sunday. This rink, which has its own refrigeration unit, should extend the skating season in the park until sometime in March."

The rink, which is a reflecting pond in the summer, was built with $210,000 donated by the Grosse Pointe Park Foundation, said Krajniak. It will be named after Park resident Robert F. Horton, former chairman of Standard Federal Savings. Horton was the largest contributor to the project, Krajniak said.

"While the rink is built, the ramp leading up to the rink isn't," said Krajniak. "This ramp will be used by the city's zamboni to gain access to the rink to clean off the ice when it becomes too pitted for safe use. We were lucky in being able to find a used zamboni, which will be used to maintain the ice."

The Park's parks and recreation staff were testing the rink equipment last weekend, said Krajniak. He expects it will take them about two weeks to develop a routine on running the rink. This routine will include operating the refrigeration equipment and cleaning the ice.

"We didn't plan on having people skate last Sunday," Krajniak said. "But people must have seen us ice up the rink. By the end of the day I guess there were 50 people using the rink. The rink ice must be added in layers, and it will take the staff a little time in learning how to ice the rink expertly. We hope to have regular hours in place by Thanksgiving."

The rink, said Krajniak, will be open from 11 a.m. until dusk Monday through Friday, and from 10 a.m. until dusk during the weekend.

skills fulfills that. In order for these kids to be competitive, it's key for them to have computer skills."

Cavanagh, said he knows computers are expensive. He sees the private sector as the funding source for computer donations to the schools in his district.

"We have to go to the private sector and convince them that there's a reward in it for them to donate money for computers. It may not translate directly and immediately back into dollars for the donors, but its about being a part of building a better total community."

Cavanagh said he realizes such a sales pitch will be difficult. Ironically, he said the important element is to tell people "what we can't do as well as what we can do."

In pitching any idea, people do not want to hear only good things, he said, because it seems too unrealistic. "They'll feel sandbagged."

"People prefer someone who gets out there, hustles hard, but is square with them. That's what I plan on doing."

"I want to build some bridges among business, education, and government."

sented to the school board in July and approved as a qualification list for advertising the job.

Following the Nov. 29 deadline, the consulting firm will begin interviewing the candidates and narrow the field to six or seven applicants, said Tim Howlett, school board president.

The entire school board will conduct candidate interviews early next year, Anderson said. Suzanne Klein has been interim superintendent since July 1, having previously served as deputy superintendent.

Howlett said Klein has applied for the position and "she has done a good job in that position and we are confident of her abilities."

However, the school board does not have a strong preference for hiring a district insider over someone from outside the district.

"We have started a search process and will continue to consider her along with the other applicants," he said.

"The view of the school board is this," Anderson said. "We have to select the finest superintendent we can, whether that person is found internally or externally. We don't know at this time. The most important thing a board member can do is select a superintendent. We will take the time we need to do that and pick the best person for the job."

Bryk said the teachers, along with members of the other four employee unions who still are negotiating with the school system, have a morale-boosting rally scheduled for 4 p.m. Monday, Nov. 18, at Grosse Pointe South High School. Also negotiating with the school district are unions representing educational support personnel, office personnel, school principals and vice principals, and non-instructional supervisors.

"We are a blue-ribbon staff and we're going to celebrate," Bryk said. Teachers will wear blue ribbons to school on Monday and to the rally, which will feature a raffle with prizes donated by local businesses.

Special guests will be Julius Maddox, president of the Michigan Education Association; Judy Locher, president of the Warren Consolidated Education Association (which went three years without a contract); and Lu Battaglieri, president of MEA-NEA Local 1.

Fenton said the school district continues to meet with all the union bargaining teams. Each team bargains separately with the district, he said, but there is a common approach in many areas between the groups.

The teachers' contract, which featured a 2 percent pay increase for each year of the two-year agreement, expired on Aug. 31.

In 1993, talks stalled and a state-appointed fact finder was called into the district to make a recommendation. In early 1994, the teachers agreed to a one-year contract with a 2.75 percent pay increase, retroactive to September 1993.

Popular vote

Students at St. Paul Catholic School got a taste of the electoral process thanks to members of the Teacher-Parent Guild, who helped them create posters, banners and slogans extolling the virtues of their candidates. On election day the students cast their secret ballots at a colorfully decorated voting station. The results? Republican candidate Robert Dole received 60.2 percent of the vote, Democratic President Bill Clinton got 29.7 percent, and H. Ross Perot garnered 7.3 percent.

1994, more than 400 schools and districts have been recognized by the Exemplary Physical Education Awards.

Emilia Kwiatkowski and Joseph Dwaihy, both seniors at Grosse Pointe South High School, have been nominated for the 1996 Wendy's High School Heisman Award.

The national program, created by Wendy's, the National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASSP), and the Downtown Athletic Club in New York City, recognizes the accomplishments of high school students who excel in academics, athletics and community involvement.

Students were nominated by their school principals. Entries will be evaluated by the scholastic review service CTB-McGraw-Hill to narrow the field to 1,020 state finalists and then to 102 state winners. Then, a panel of judges will review the state winners and name 12 national finalists, one boy and one girl student, representing six geographic regions, each of whom will be invited to New York City to participate in a national telecast on Saturday, Dec. 14, on ESPN.

The deadline for submitting an entry form, essay, wiring diagram and photo to Duracell/NSTA Scholarship Competition is Jan. 15, 1997. Entries are judged on creativity, practicality, energy efficiency and clarity of the essay. Each student who submits a completed entry will receive a certificate of participation and a Duracell "fanny pack."

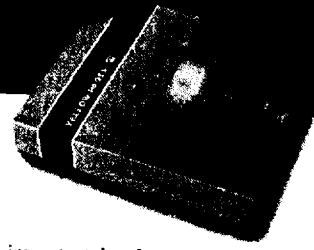

Duracell will announce 100 nationwide finalists, each a candidate for a $200 bond, in February. In March, 41 winners will be named to receive a first-place $20,000 bond, five second-place, $10,000 bonds, 10 third-place, $1,000 bonds,

Those who went beyond call of duty honored by school district

By Shirley A. McShane

More than a dozen community members were honored by the Grosse Pointe school board on Monday night for their volunteer service to the school system.

Since 1974, the school board has recognized those members of the community who have donated their time and energy for the betterment of the school

Barbara Drader was nominated for her green thumb and her dedication to taking care of the gardens at Grosse Pointe North High School, including the Richard Cooper memorial garden and the weeping cherry tree recently planted in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Haurani, who died on TWA flight 800 last July. She also helped to coordinate the Mums by Moms sale and the annual flower credited with bringing Market Day to Defer school. She initiated the project three years ago and continues to coordinate it. Market Day brings in approximately $500 a month, which is used for Kids' Club scholarships, library books and field trips. recruited a band of volunteers to monitor the lunchroom at Maire, enabling the paid supervisors to keep their eyes on the students on the playground. She also is involved in the Maire school improvement plan, which focuses on improving reading and writing skills. She initiated and chairs the Maire Anthology program, a collection of writing from every student in the school. Last year Manganello typed every story, designed and copied the book and distributed it to parents, teachers and students. She also has been a room mother, co-chair of the Maire book fair and is a member of the principal's advisory team.

The Rev. Peter Smith of Jefferson Avenue Presbyterian Church has been working behind the scenes as a member of the executive board of the South high Choir Boosters, chairman of the Madrigal Dinner and has been a fundraiser for the National Show Choir competition. Smith was instrumental in developing a new uniform procurement system, which resulted in savings for the district and made travel arrangements for 90 choir members who went to Orlando, Fla., last spring to perform in a national competition.

A volunteer at Richard, Brownell and South, Joyce Stentz was instrumental in soliciting parent opinion and approval of South's Collaborative School Improvement Plan and helped develop the school's Peer Mediation Program. As a parent representative to the South PAC, the High School of the Future and the School Senate Process Team, Stentz has surveyed parent interests and concerns, analyzed the information and responded to it. She attends every meeting, completes every assignment and offers valuable insight on every project.

Suzanne Topper has volunteered at Monteith elementary school for 11 years as a room mother, classroom volunteer, and PTO fundraising chairman. She brought Market Day to Monteith, an activity that raised $5,000 for the school. She also has chaired the Santa's Secret Shop for nine years and has served on the Parcels Enrollment Committee Club and the Norsemons.

Grosse Pointe North parent club president Bruce Vollmer is described as the first to arrive at a North function and always with a smile on his face. He worked to bring together every North parent group for the first Green and Gold Night and established a scholarship in honor of his late wife, Donna. A long-serving member of the high school PAC, he is always willing to roll up his sleeves for any job.

Mary Weathers has been involved in almost every Ferry PTO event, has volunteered as a room mother, clinic mom, field trip driver, chair of the October Fest, Santa's Breakfast, served as vice president of student activities, taught arts and crafts and cooking during noon-time enrichment classes and helped sponsor the Freshman Spirit Day at North. In addition, she has the distinction of being one of the only parents to volunteer for the sheep lung dissection portion of the fifth-grade science curriculum.

Carolyn Withers chaired the Sally Foster Gift Wrap fundraiser for the last eight years at Kerby school. She is described as an innovator who not only comes up with ideas but makes those ideas work. She initiated Santa's Attic Workshop, worked on the School district examines issue of overcrowding at Parcels school

By Shirley A. McShane
Staff Writer

Parcels Middle School has no shortage of students.

Although enrollment is below the schools' peak population of 1,067 students in 1967, administrators say it is still above its optimum level of 500 students.

During the budget-setting process last spring, Parcels parents and administrators appealed to the school board to help them alleviate the crowded conditions at the middle school on Vernier and Mack, which serves the north end of the Grosse Pointe Public School System.

In its report to the school board, the Parcels budget committee said, "Larger class sizes, crowded halls and schedule compromises, however, are gradually eroding our ability to provide the wholesome school climate and ideal learning environment which we believe the students at Parcels deserve."

"We currently have 793 students, less than the 803 we projected, but based on our census information and the number of students coming from Parcels' feeder schools, it appears our enrollment will be up to 822 students over the next five years, all things remaining equal," said assistant superintendent Chris Fenton. "We don't yet know the impact of the GM move to (the Renaissance Center)."

At the end of September, Parcels had 793 students. Brownell had 510 and Pierce, which is the smallest of the middle schools, had 562 students.

In response to concerns, a committee of parents, teachers and administrators was formed last spring to come up with ideas on how to solve the problem. They developed a list of 21 options — everything from adding an annex to the building, to sending 100 students to

Brownell. The school district then held a series of public

'Every option has its ups and downs, its strengths and weaknesses.'

Glenn Croydon
Parcels principal meetings to gather input from the Parcels community, as well as the feeder schools: Mason, Poupard, Monteith and Ferry. From that original list and based on parents' feedback, the committee pared the list to five options:

• Create a "zero hour" at the beginning of the school day to provide opportunities for additional classes to be offered.

• Build an addition onto Parcels.

• Cancel the lease with the Grosse Pointe Public Library for the Woods branch.

• Create a sixth-grade middle school at Barnes school.

• Move the boundary for Brownell farther north to equalize student numbers between Parcels and Brownell.

"We are dealing with a sensitive and potentially emotional issue," said board president Tim Howlett. "The report is good, the people have participated and the board has an open mind."

Board members listened to the committee's report on Monday, Nov. 11, received some comments from parents in the audience and discussed the options.

For each option offered, at least one board member had a reservation. They said, creating a "zero hour" would rob middle school children of needed sleep; building an addition onto the school would be foolhardy when space is available at Brownell and Barnes; taking the Woods branch of the public library would only serve as a temporary solution; and moving the sixth-graders out of Parcels and separating them from the rest of the middle school environment would destroy the team-teaching concept that was introduced in the late 1980s that has been well-received by parents and teachers.

"What is the major issue," asked board treasurer Steve Matthews. "Is it lack of space or too many students?"

"It's both," said Parcels principal Glenn Croydon. "The total number we have right now means we have to offer more sections which means we need more space. Five hundred students would be ideal. The smaller the school, the harder it is to get all the options in."

Croydon added that although the school had a population of more than 1,000 students in the late 1960s, the educational environment was different. There were no computer labs, class sizes were larger and the school used part of the district library's space, he said.

Even moving boundaries, which would be the quickest, most cost-effective solution, isn't easy. Fenton said there are portions of the north-end district in which the majority of the children go to private and parochial schools, so a boundary shift without research would have little impact.

"Every option has its ups and downs, its strengths and weaknesses," Croydon said.

The school district will continue to explore options and report back to the board in December.

Safety Town boost

Vogel was a fundraiser, spokesman and diplomatic envoy. Muelle, an architect, donated hundreds of hours of his time designing and coordinating playground renovation plans. Greening, on the Richard Site Committee, donated endless hours of time and talent to the project. Couzens, the "cheerleader," organized site meetings and community forums.

House break-in

A woman reported to Woods police that she found a window in her house open upon waking up on Sunday, Nov. 10. She said that no windows were open when she went to bed at about 11:15 the night before.

The victim told police that nothing seemed to be missing, but she checked her bedroom at the request of investigating officers and discovered that a jewelry box containing about $650 in jewelry was taken.

More than locker room hi-jinx

Woods police received a report on Monday, Nov. 4, from officials at North High School that on Saturday, Nov. 2, between 12:30 p.m. and 3:45 p.m., a party or parties unknown entered the football locker room and committed a variety of crimes.

Officials discovered, upon returning to the locker room, that toilet paper dispensers were torn off the wall, the contents of unlocked lockers were thrown around the room, and the coach's office was broken into and about $600 in cash was taken.

It was also discovered that a player's walkman and $40 of cash were taken from another player.

Armed robbery attempt

An employee of a restaurant in the 19300 block of Mack in the Woods reported that on Monday, Nov. 4, at about 11 a.m. she was in her car and attempting to pull out of a nearby parking lot with a large cash deposit when another car, a white Pontiac Grand Prix with a temporary license plate in the back window and being driven by a woman, pulled behind her, blocking her.

The victim told Woods police that she was then approached by a man wearing a mask and carrying a black revolver. The victim refused to roll down her window as ordered. She also began honking her horn, at which point the man in the mask ran to the Pontiac, which drove off. The car was last seen driving south through an alley behind Mack. No injuries were reported.

Park discovers cause of recent mansion blaze

Grosse Pointe Park public safety officers arrested a group of teens in connection with the Sept. 22 fire at the Morrison estate. According to reports, the fire started when the teens entered the abandoned and partially demolished building after dark on Saturday, Sept. 21.

They had rolled newspapers into torches and lit them to provide light while they explored the house, police said. The remains of the torches were discarded as they went along. The teens told public safety officers that as they left, they observed a glow coming from one of the rooms, but that they were too scared to return or notify anyone.

The fire burned through the night, until flames were observed by a boater on Lake St. Clair Sunday morning. Police report that the teens and their families were very cooperative, and each will be charged with trespass and open burning.

Busted

Grosse Pointe Park police were able to uncover information that led to the arrest of several Detroit men involved in a series of crimes in Detroit and Grosse Pointe Farms.

On Friday, Nov. 1, detectives from the Park and Detroit's Fifth Precinct arrested a suspect in his home in the 3400 block of Buckingham in Detroit. The suspect allegedly was involved in home invasions in Detroit.

He was questioned by Park detectives and admitted to being involved in the theft of automobiles from the Country Club of Detroit in the Farms. The suspect was arraigned in the Farms on auto theft charges, and is in the custody of Detroit police.

On Monday, Nov. 4, working with information gleaned from the Nov. 1 arrest, Detroit and Park police arrested two suspect in the 3600 block of Devonshire in Detroit for allegedly breaking into several homes on the Detroit side of Mack. Property stolen in those break-ins was recovered by police. The suspects were remanded to the custody of Detroit police.

Stolen check used to 'send the very best'

An employee of J.P. Hallmark store in the Village reported Nov. 11 to City of Grosse Pointe police that someone apparently used a stolen check in the business establishment to purchase $47.28 worth of goods on Oct. 30.

So far, police have uncovered that the check in question was among checks stolen from the mail that were suppose to be delivered to a Monroe, MI resident.

Man high on crack arrested

A 29-year-old Sterling Heights man — operating under the influence of liquor and drugs — failed to properly negotiate his car around the curve on northbound Lakeshore near the Edsel and Eleanor Ford Mansion, ending up ripping up freshly-laid sod and knocking over a "no parking" sign on a traffic island about 11 p.m. on Nov. 5.

After his car came to rest on the island, the man fled on foot, but police caught him. He failed all field sobriety tests, and admitted to smoking crack cocaine. Back at the police station, the man's blood alcohol test, however, revealed .00 results, confirming little influence from alcohol and possibly heavy influence from drugs. A second, and more comprehensive drug test to be sent to the state police for evaluation was conducted at Bon Secours Hospital. Police escorted the man back to the station; he was released the following morning after posting $100 bond. He will be arraigned within two weeks.

Stolen car rests on church grass

A car, belonging to a woman attending last Wednesday evening Mass, came to rest on the lawn of St. Paul's on the Lake after perpetrators who were trying to steal the car lost control of it. A second car was damaged on its left rear side after the steering wheel locked up in the car the perpetrators were trying to steal negating their ability to steer it. It sustained damage on the right front and the side view mirror. Grosse Pointe Farms police have no witnesses or suspects to the attempted car theft.

Thieves break in to City flats

Thieves broke into, ransacked and stole belongings from both an upper and lower flat in the 800 block of St. Clair last Thursday morning.

Propping a ladder against the flat in the backyard, the thieves gained entry to the lower flat by smashing out a window, stealing a BB gun, VCR and remote control.

City of Grosse Pointe police said the thieves then gained access to the upper flat internally with ease and stole another VCR. There are no suspects.

Woman had car plate stolen

A city of Grosse Pointe resident living in an apartment on Mack between Lakeland and University reported stolen Nov. 7 the license plate from her 1981 Plymouth four-door car. Her car also sustained damage on the passenger side mirror. Police are on the look-out for someone with a 1997 Michigan license with a plate number/letter combination of 063 FXJ.

Detroit Edison honored for solar project

Detroit Edison's solar energy project, SolarCurrents, today received a special recognition award from the U.S. Department of Energy's (DOE) 1996 National Energy Efficiency and Renewable Energy Awards.

Given each year by DOE's Office of Energy Efficiency and Renewable Energy, these awards recognize individuals, institutions, companies and government agencies that have implemented energy-related measures that benefit the nation's environment, economy and security.

Christine Ervin, assistant secretary for Energy Efficiency and Renewable Energy, said that the 35 special recognition award winners were recognized in each of the following categories: building technology, industrial technology, transportation technology, utility technology, federal energy activities and energy technology and education. Detroit Edison was recognized in the utility technology category.

The awards are presented in celebration of Energy Awareness Month.

Anthony F. Earley, the utility's president and chief operating officer said Detroit Edison is the first utility in the nation to offer customers a supplemental 'green rate' to buy solar power delivered through the utility's electric grid from a central facility.

Detroit Edison dedicated the 28.4-kilowatt solar, or photovoltaic, power generating facility in April. The program allows about 200 Detroit Edison customers to subscribe to a special SolarCurrents rate. The subscribers agreed to pay an additional $6.59 per month on average for each 100 watts of service.

Located near Ann Arbor, Detroit Edison's solar facility should produce about 40,300 kilowatt hours of electricity annually using 120 solar panels.

It was built at a cost of $250,000, including $116,000 in funding from the DOE.

The DOE evaluates projects according to the following criteria: program effectiveness, natural resource conservation, economic progress and energy education and awareness. Projects must be operational for at least one year to allow documentation of the projected energy savings or the program results. The projects are reviewed by their State Energy Offices, as well as an independent panel of judges representing national energy-related organizations.

Grosse Pointe area seniors celebrated fall at an annual music festival

Nearly 300 seniors savored the sights and sounds of professional entertainers at the third annual October music fest at St. John-Bon Secours Senior Community. The annual event was open to residents, their families and the community. It featured performances by the Pleasant Moments Vintage Dancers, Die Rhinelanders, Elan, the Renaissance Dance Co. of Detroit, A Reasonable Facsimile and Jumpin' Jim Dandies.

"Once again, the Senior Community was pleased to open its doors to the community for an afternoon of great entertainment and warm hospitality," said Judith Smith, chief executive officer of the Senior Community.

The event's theme, "Celebrating International Harmony," extended the good will generated by the Summer Olympics. The dining room was decorated with posters of exotic travel sites and a display of dolls from around the world.

During the afternoon, guests enjoyed cider, desserts and hors d'oeuvres that represented different cultures.

Many toured the center, which offers a continuum of care, including residential and assisted living, respite care and skilled nursing care.

The Senior Community is a collaborative effort of the Sisters of St. Joseph and the Sisters of Bon Secours.

Campaign seeks to eliminate car-deer crashes

Oh! Deer! is the warning going out to motorists at the height of deer-crash season as part of a new statewide campaign to help combat the rapid rise in deer-vehicle crashes in Michigan.

A newly formed coalition is hoping greater attention to the problem and better education will help motorists be more alert.

According to State Transportation Director Robert Welke, "Considering public safety is our highest priority, we are pleased to be part of this coalition. Our goal is to provide the engineering and education necessary to minimize the occurrence of incidents on Michigan's state roadways."

"We are increasingly concerned with the safety of Michigan motorists. Eight people were killed and nearly 2,200 were injured in deer-vehicle crashes last year," said

Ronald L. Steffens, president and CEO, AAA Michigan. "Through awareness of this growing traffic safety problem, we hope to reduce deer-vehicle crashes, which result in more than $50 million in vehicle damage annually."

The project is the first program promoted by a larger group which is studying long-term and other short-term methods to reduce the likelihood of deer-vehicle crashes.

Motorists should be aware that:

- Deer crashes peak during October, November and December, when reproductive behavior increases deer movement. Crashes also peak in March, April and May, when deer migrate from wintering grounds to areas lush with new vegetation.
- Crashes are more likely to occur at dawn and dusk, when deer are moving between feeding and resting areas.
- The majority of crashes happen on local roads, not interstate highways.

More than 62,000 motorists were involved in deer crashes in 1995, a substantial increase from 1994. "Fall not only means spectacular colors but also the very real possibility of deer being on or near our roadways," said Secretary of State Candice S. Miller, who also serves as chair of the Michigan State Safety Commission. "It's vital that drivers be aware of this potential danger so they can better anticipate and react when and if a deer should appear."

To help avoid an encounter with a deer, motorists should:

- Watch for deer-crossing signs, which are a reminder for driving cautiously.
- Use good sense. Wear safety belts and stay aware, awake, alert and sober.
- Deliberately look for deer at peak times, and if you see them, slow down. "Motorists must be aware that deer are a very real danger to drivers, especially during the fall. We urge people to take extra caution when driving at dawn and dusk, when deer are most likely to be moving," said Director of the Michigan State Police Col. Michael D. Robinson.

A study commissioned by the Michigan Department of Transportation recommended methods with potential to reduce deer crashes in Michigan. Those recommendations included:

- Considering deer population management.
- Controlling right-of-way vegetation and width, clearing the right-of-way.
- Warning sign placement.
- Limiting speed in high crash locations.
- Educating drivers through public awareness campaigns.

CAROL OF THE BIRDS

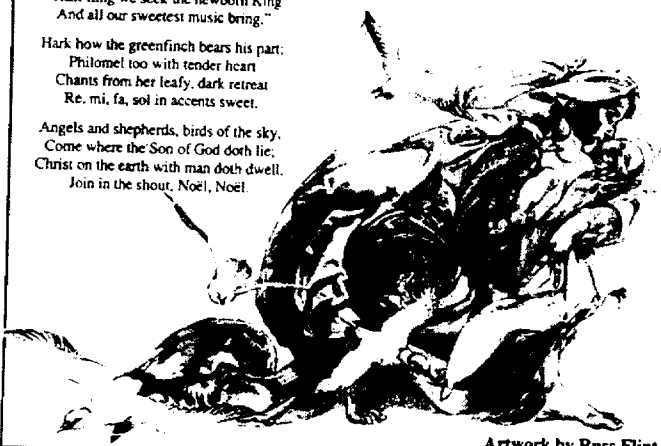

Bas Quarry
Whence comes this rush of wings afar,
Following straight the Noel star?
Birds from the woods in wondrous flight
Bethlehem seek this holy night.

"Tell us, ye birds, why come ye here,
Into this stable, poor and desolate?"
"Hark! 'ning we seek the newborn King
And all our sweetest music bring."

Hark, how the greenfinch bears his part:
Philoel too with tender heart
Chants from her leafy, dark retreat
Re-mi, fa, sol in accents sweet.

Angels and shepherds, birds of the sky,
Come where the Son of God doth lie,
Christ on the earth with man doth dwell,
Join in the shout, Noel, Noel!

party, and is now a successful attorney.

Letters and photos from "kids" in their late 20s and early 30s who could not attend the Dorsey's party were stacked on a desk in the living room.

At the party, we laughed about all the good times we had at the Dorseys. Also, we laughed at funny traits we collectively witnessed the Dorseys as possessing. For example, when we were kids, the Dorsey sent us to the huge dictionary displayed on a lectern in their library, to look up words we didn't know.

I particularly remember heaving open that heavy dictionary to look up "Anonymous" when I was seven years old. "Anonymous" was signed below a picture colored by my neighbor Billy Mackey that the Dorseys hung in their vestibule with other kid-produced art.

I knew Billy had colored it, and I said so. Pointing to the word "anonymous," I said boldly "that doesn't say 'Billy.'" Bingo, a trip to the dictionary.

Time spent at the Dorseys was not all fun and games though. Many reunion party attendees recalled coming to the Dorseys for guidance during confusing childhood times.

For example, Wilson Wehmeier recalled leaving behind a house full of mourners and visiting the Dorseys.

He told the Dorseys, "You know how when people die, they divide possessions. Well, when you die, I want that," he said, pointing to a pewabic tile picture the Dorseys hung on their library wall. The Dorseys helped a young Wilson that day deal with a death in his family.

And talented Detroit-artist Lisa Spindler, now in her 30s, recalled that the Dorseys were kind to all children.

"I lived on Touraine, near Brownell. I wasn't technically a neighborhood kid, but they accepted me into their home anyway. I was so shy."

But the Dorseys' easy-going atmosphere helped kids develop their social skills.

Spindler, and boyfriend Alex Porbe, also a talented Detroit-based artist, wowed the Dorseys with photos of their work, and an invitation to their latest showing at their studios.

Since my husband and I attended the Dorseys' wonderful reunion party, I have given a lot of thought about improving my abilities as a friend and neighbor to children.

Unfortunately, I recall recently cursing the slapping sound of skateboards children were flipping incessantly outside our house.

I know I am a part of the generation that leaders around the country say will have difficulty achieving what our parents achieved.

These experts generally were referencing my generation's likely inability to match our parents' economic success.

But I say, working toward their success to be loving adults is a far more challenging and worthwhile goal.

Bean there, done that

In case you hadn't noticed, the Pointe's Pat Wright is back from a two-year stint in Costa Rica for the Peace Corps and you can find him most days serving up mocha, lattes and the like behind the counter at the Coffee Grinder on The Hill.

"We sent him down there just to check out the coffee," jokes grundermeister John Jutte.

Maybe it's not a joke: One of Pat's contributions since he returned is a fresh line of Costa Rican beans at Jutte's javatorium. "I was actually right in the middle of a coffee growing area," Pat says. "I saw the whole process from start to finish."

Get much chance to improve your Spanish? FYI asks. "I learned a lot, but I had studied under John Mason at South High and people down there complimented me on my grammar and usage," says Pat.

He's most proud of having helped youth in the small town of Orosi in the province of Cartago to build a multi-sports complex, he says.

"I showed them how to get started and helped to legitimize the project, and they did the rest," says Pat, who actually put in a whole lot of time and work and even some of his modest Peace Corps pay to keep the ball rolling.

"I can't think a better use of my time or money than helping people do things like that."

Professor Peter T. Koper has offered to participate in the trial by teaching the traditional approach.

Bertonneau said, "Let each method prove its worth and give students a chance to benefit from the better method."

- Re-establish core curricula and study of books important to Western civilization.

- Offer aspiring teachers a more meaningful curriculum by requiring fewer education courses and more courses in their specialty discipline, such as math or history.

- Enforce rules against indoctrination in the classroom.

- Alumni, parents, and employers should hold university governing boards more accountable for producing well-prepared graduates.

The study stresses that these improvements can be made without legislative action.

"The universities should work to improve education without being forced by the state. If the legislature or governor must get involved, there is more risk of politicization," Bertonneau said.

Kercheval businesses to provide free trolley for easy holiday shopping transportation

By Amy Andreou Miller
Staff Writer

Shopping during the holiday season can get stressful, so some store owners try to create the best experience possible inside their store for their customers.

That's not good enough, say members of the three Grosse Pointe business districts on Kercheval. They plan to make the experience of getting from store to store more convenient.

For the holiday season, they hired a trolley, with a 45-plus passenger capacity, to make continual loops through the shopping districts on Kercheval in Grosse Pointe Park, in the Village in the City of Grosse Pointe, and on the Hill in Grosse Pointe Farms.

See chart below for days and hours of trolley operation, and associated details.

"This should greatly reduce the frustration of trying to find a parking space," said Jerry Valente, owner of Valente Jewelers in the Village, and president of the Village Association.

Also, the trolley, he said, can free up time spent by parents who previously assisted with transportation for their kids who are too young to drive.

In addition to convenience, Valente emphasized that the trolley will also enhance the shopping experience. On board the trolley, people will be able to enjoy free candy, and the sounds of holiday music.

This is the first time the Kercheval merchants have banded together to offer a free trolley to patrons during the holiday season. The decision to do this comes on the heels of a brochure marketing the charm and enjoyment of shopping in the three districts on Kercheval. The brochure was conceived and published in the Spring of this year.

Before summer began, the merchants agreed upon the trolley rental for the holiday season. Copies of the brochure will be available on the trolley, and area businesses.

"Grosse Pointe is special, and we felt it was time we started playing that up,"

Shown here is the same trolley used last Spring in the Park for the Taste Fest.

Valente said.

The August opening of the new Somerset Collection North's stores in Troy, was only a tiny factor spurring the marketing of Grosse Pointes shopping districts.

"What they don't have that we have here is a very comfortable feeling and top-notch service," he said.

For example, Valente said many people feel comfortable to dress however they wish when shopping in Grosse Pointe. Many people leisurely push baby strollers. And rather than gulping down food before entering certain businesses, some people bring their ice cream cone or cup of coffee into a business and cautiously indulge. Other people do not worry about keeping an ever-watchful eye over their toddlers.

Also, many businesses whose products cater mostly to adult nevertheless extend themselves to children.

"I keep a stack of children's books and a little chair handy for kids," said the jeweler. "They enjoy themselves, and it gives Mom and Dad piece of mind to leisurely look around the store."

Rental of the Port Huron area-based Blue Water trolley with its rich wood and brass trim, will cost the Kercheval business owners several thousand dollars, but they said it is worth it for the sense of community it fosters, Valente said.

What is of particular interest is that those who contributed money for the trolley rental were not just shop owners who likely will see a steady flow of holiday customers. Valente said lawyers, stockbrokers, real estate agents, etc. who work on Kercheval also donated money, as did the Neighborhood Club.

"We even had a woman who resides near the Village donate money," said Valente of a woman who prefers to remain anonymous.

Valente said the woman was enamored by the joy that area residents seem to exude when riding the trolleys which Kercheval merchants have rented annually for the September Taste Fest which is a part of a larger collaborative event of art and antique displays throughout the Grosse Pointes.

How would you invest $300,000 today?

By Joseph Mengden

Pretend it's an inheritance from a long-lost uncle. Or the lottery winnings, after-tax. Or the proceeds of selling a cottage on Lake Michigan near St. Joe. Or a 10th prize in the Readers Digest contest, that never ends. Don't argue, take the check to the bank!

Now the big problem begins. What to do with the cash? How and when to invest it? First off, park the cash in a Money Market A c c o u n t, (MMA) somewhere. Your bank will probably try to talk you into their Certificate of Deposit, but the FDIC will only insure you up to $100,000. Since you're probably going to invest most of the money, sooner or later, in stocks or bonds, why not put the cash into an investment-brokerage firm, which has several MMAs with the "sweep" feature, plus check-writing privileges. The MMA is valued at par, $1.00 every day, because its short-term investments so qualify under SEC rules.

That means all deposits and withdrawals go in and out, dollar for dollar. Some MMAs invest only in U.S. Treasury securities, which are obviously of the highest quality, and lowest yield. Other MMAs invest in Commercial Paper and short-term Corporate Bonds, all rated: Investment Grade.

Mengden

The yield differential between the Treasury and Commercial Paper MMAs is about 15 to 25 basis points in favor of the Commercial Paper. Investors in the highest tax brackets should look at the Michigan tax-free MMAs, which invest only in short-term Michigan notes and bonds, of which there is a continual scarcity. An exercise in arithmetic with your tax-adviser will determine which MMA is for you.

Now that the cash is invested short-term, you need to do a little financial planning. How will this "New Money" fit into your Personal Balance Sheet? See LTS June 13, 1996. Should some of the new money be used to pay-off debt and what's your life expectancy? See LTS July 18, 1996.

Let's assume that most of the new money is available to add to your core portfolio, see LTS July 4 and September 12, 1996. Should you purchase Individual Growth Stocks, Mutual Funds, or Variable Annuities? Or should you purchase some triple tax-exempt Michigan municipal bonds? Sounds like Asset Allocation is a problem, see LTS June 20 and June 27, 1996.

We'll never get to the end of all those questions in today's newspaper. The answer could be: "All of the above!" But how much of each? Or should some investment categories be over-weighted? Even if we solve that dilemma, when do you purchase the securities? Now, somewhat later, next year or in 2 or 3 years?

That's the "Pot-of-Gold" Question! When and how much to purchase? If everyone agrees, they never ever all agree on anything, that the stock market is currently: a little high; very high; overpriced? What to do? You can: Do nothing; Buy 20 percent now—stick in your big toe; Buy 1/3 now—in up to your knees; Buy 1/2 now—you're up to your waist or Buy 100 percent now—you're over your head!

Most trust administrators, portfolio analysts and financial planners will probably advise a purchase over a time spectrum. In this market environment, of 3 to 5 years, not necessarily equal-weighted. LTS recommends a 4-installment purchase program: 1/4 now and the balance over 3 years.

With the overall market as high as it is, and it is high, LTS is focusing on a "Dollar Averaging" program. They know full well that the same stocks may not be on the "Buy List" in any or all of the 3 remaining years. If the market goes down, you will be buying more shares for the same dollars. If the market goes up, visa versa!

LTS does not know what the market will do in 1, 2 or 3 years. Nor does anyone have anything but a guess. But LTS firmly believes that the only way to attempt to beat inflation and income taxes, over time, is through the ownership of high-quality growth stocks and growth mutual funds.

Peter Lynch's seven pearls of wisdom:

1. Don't try to predict the economy.
2. Concentrate on the company, forget the market.
3. Avoid long shots.
4. Avoid high-growth businesses anyone can enter.
5. Don't assume a fallen high-flyer will come back.
6. Don't fret over missed stocks.
7. Know what you own. You should be able to explain why you own a stock in two minutes to a 12-year old.

Joseph Mengden is a City of Grosse Pointe resident, and a former chairman of the board of First of Michigan.

Grosse Pointers drink up perks of local coffee shops

By Margaret Fitzgerald
Special Writer

It is nearly 6 p.m. John Jutte, manager and owner of the Coffee Grinder in Grosse Pointe Farms, has just finished disassembling the espresso machines. The grate where pressured heated water is forced down and through the filter containing ground espresso beans must be cleared of debris, and the filters themselves polished until they shine.

Jutte could probably use a cup of his own espresso. Tending to the myriad tastes of scores of coffee drinkers must have its limits, but Jutte just smiles.

"I love coffee," he says. "I love this business." And a booming business it is. Since Starbucks popularized the consumption of specialized coffee drinks, a coffee shop craze has swept the country.

Market research suggests that the '90s trend toward smaller, more affordable indulgences is reflected in the enthusiasm displayed by latte lovers and other self-ascribed coffee fanatics like myself. When you consider that an estimated 285,000 cups of coffee and tea were consumed at Wimbledon in 1996, the boom in coffee house attendance locally is a logical phenomenon.

Caffeine is the last socially acceptable addiction, and coffee drinkers in Grosse Pointe can be overheard swearing by their favorite shop's brew above all others. Coffee shop owners who can offer atmosphere and a great cup of joe are at the helm of the trend.

When Jutte began researching the Starbucks generation in 1991 before launching his business here, he found coffee paradise in cities along the West Coast.

Five years ago, a decent cup of cappuccino was difficult to find. Most of us relied on carry-out coffee in Styrofoam cups from diners or fast food drive-throughs.

According to city records, there are now five establishments to choose from: Caribou, Coffee Grinder, Cup-a-Cino, The Daily Grind and Vienna.

Some cater more to the adolescent crowd, others to moms finally free for a while or professionals stealing away for a few moments of quiet.

Although media portrayal of coffee shops is trendy in sitcoms like "Friends" and "Frasier," in reality the people who frequent these places embrace them and regard them as worthy additions to the community.

Mr. Coffee has been shelved as more of us opt to go out and share a cup with our neighbors.

The coffee house as the '90s version of the village square has a following. Our local cafes were envisioned by owners who wanted to create a neighborhood spot where people could count on seeing a familiar face if they wanted to.

After 9 a.m. on any given weekday morning, the Coffee Grinder is buzzing with regulars who talk across tables like co-workers around the water cooler. Absolute strangers can become friends in a few weeks. At the same time, there are those who happily lose themselves in the newspaper, a book or a crossword puzzle. Lingering quietly is as popular as visiting with a group of friends.

At The Daily Grind, as in the other establishments, you can dash in for a carry-out if that's what you need. Black leather sofas and nearby as you rush through your paper and gulp what is meant to be savored. The proprietors know that people come to a coffee shop for many reasons. The attraction is not just the precious indulgence of time suspended over a tailor-made mocha. It is the fact that public solitude feels just right, as do animated group discussions.

Jim Akers, manager of Caribou, says that one of the most important things shops offer many options. Whether frequented in response to emotional or practical needs (jet fuel, one espresso drinker said), it seems likely that coffee shops are here to stay.

All of these places create different moods by their lighting, furnishings and color schemes. Hunter green is popular. Marble-topped cafe tables at the Grinder hint at elegance and intimacy. The generous sofa and chairs in the back room at Caribou invite long discussions or a good book on a cold autumn afternoon.

At Vienna, the decor is charmingly mismatched and the atmosphere friendly and intimate. Homemade pastries and Vesna Dulbic's strong European version of cafe au lait are sampled at the tables inside.

And Cup-a-Cino is funky and hip, with graffiti art and intentionally exposed brick framing the entry to the poetry room.

If coffee shops have an agenda, this is it — to offer people a chance to escape for awhile from their schedules, responsibilities or even their problems.

Cup-a-Cino owner Jennifer Stockwell went all out to create an atmosphere. The bold fuchsia walls adorned with original art, the poets' stage where lacquered pages of sheet music lay under foot, and the microphone echoes of a young poet giving a reading are indicative of the personality of this place. It is molded as much by the owner as by those who come there. Stockwell nodded at the men and women seated in this room, and said it was "a place where they could share their craft."

She acknowledged that what is a business for her is a community center for her clientele.

Although she plans to broaden her base by expanding more into a carry-out cafe and pastry service, she will continue to cater to the younger coffee-drinking crowds which gather there in the evenings.

She knows that the poetry meetings and open mike nights provide an emotional fix for her customers, because the format and the mood is established by the people who attend. And the people who attend are regulars who think of this place as their own.

We all like to have someplace we can call our own. Coffee shops offer an excellent opportunity for us to indulge ourselves, while answering a need for a more personalized community connection. They are part of our neighborhoods, giving us a place to see and hear the people we live near. We sometimes risk isolation with things that separate us physically from others — computers, sunglasses, headphones, fences and tinted windows.

Coffee shops are one way to bridge the gap.

So go out, get a cappuccino. Take the Grosse Pointe News. Take a friend.

Your id will thank you.

ragged claret walls add to the slick, stylized feel. House blends are still available, but so are the more refined Italian espresso-based drinks like cappuccinos, mochas and lattes. Patrons are in no rush to finish and leave, though.

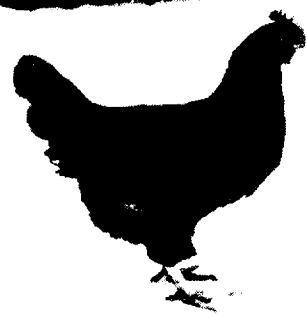

Not only do the various java joints encourage customers to relax with their steaming cups, they want them to stay as long as they care to. Really.

No one will come and hurry you along, or hover he can offer his customers is "the best neighborhood gathering place possible." And although Caribou is an unmistakably corporate entity, the atmosphere inside is the antithesis of a cookie-cutter franchise. The environment is smoke-free, warm and friendly. It's a place to go with a date on Friday night — or maybe after church on Sunday — to chat idly with a friend or to take a break from work or shopping.

Henry Ford Health System honored by WEC

Henry Ford Health System will receive the Today's Workplace of Tomorrow award from the Women's Economic Club at a luncheon today, Thursday, Nov. 14.

The annual award recognizes organizations that believe a healthy economic bottom line is connected to employee well-being.

"We are proud to receive this award. We are committed to creating an environment that will enable our work force to grow personally and professionally," said Gail L. Warden, president and chief executive officer of HFHS.

Award winners are judged on several criteria, including promotion of employee health and well-being; use of employee creativity and skill; availability of alternative methods for accomplishing work; prevalence of diversity in the workplace; practice of social responsibility; and respect for contributions by women.

Award winners must demonstrate initiatives that clearly go above and beyond the basic steps for a better quality of life. HFHS was cited for its commitment to cultural diversity in the workplace, its flexible benefits program and flexible work arrangements which include support of child care programs for its employees' children, and its contribution of more than $46 million in uncompensated care to southeastern Michigan residents.

Altitude, speed and time are still shown in modern cockpits by means of a pointer or needle—precisely because this sort of indicator sweeping over a circular gauge is what a pilot sees best, particularly when he also has to keep track of countless other pieces of information. But digital readouts can for instance provide times to 1/100th of a second and alphanumeric data along with simplifying the setting of programmable functions. These display principles contribute to the Breitling's design excellence which, in turn, explains its selection as the personal instrument of many of the world's finest aerobatics teams.

'Baubles and Bangles for Barat' to be Nov. 20 at DAC

Friends of Barat, a group that supports Barat Child and Family Services, plans a holiday boutique, "Baubles and Bangles for Barat," from 5 to 9 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 20, at the Detroit Athletic Club.

The organization expects 200 guests for an evening of holiday shopping, cocktails, a buffet and music. It hopes to raise more than $20,000 for local children who have been abused or neglected.

"We have always hosted a traditional bi-annual holiday brunch," said Susan Rohde, president of the Friends of Barat. "This year our committee decided to move away from the brunch to create something more festive and unique."

"Many of the best boutique vendors in the area have been secured to participate," said Susan Cortner, boutique chairman. "This holiday boutique will certainly rival any of those in Grosse Pointe or surrounding areas. More importantly, 'Baubles and Bangles for Barat' is designed to provide an opportunity to avoid the chaos of the holiday shopping season while helping local children."

"A portion of the purchase price of each item will help local kids who have been abused or neglected. The benefits from each sale will be felt long after the holiday season, and that's what's important," Rohde said.

Among the items for sale: whimsical bowls in all price ranges, hand painted crystal,

Scents of a feast

By the Rev. William C. DeVries
First Christian Reformed Church

It's strange how smells bring back memories. It's strange how the scent of a certain cookie recipe baking will bring clear and fresh the thoughts and feelings of a small child.

I read that the sense of smell is that which is most tightly linked to our memories.

I know how powerfully the smell of a roasting turkey will take me back over the decades into my youth and into my aunt's and uncle's home.

Theirs was the largest house (tiny by today's standards) in the family, so that's where family holiday feasts were most often located.

I can see the people again — the aunts in the kitchen, bustling from sink to stove; the sisters and cousins clustered around the dining table, discussing flatware and napkin placement.

There is grandma, sitting in the corner of the kitchen. She had a stroke after grandpa died, so she couldn't help much.

The men would soon be called from the living room to reaching bowls, or carve, or help dish out the heavy potato pot. Grandma would just watch.

Always, they all would turn to her for advice or to make a joke about the quantity of food. (Actually, there was always plenty. We all ate leftovers for many days.)

Grandma was never left out; never set aside. She had little to contribute at that point in her life. She was never a person with any money. She could no longer remember the old recipes. Her manual skills, at this point, were deeply suspect.

But she was family.

It was not important what she could contribute. What was vital was that she needed someone to care about her. We were the ones. We were her people, her family. And she was one of us.

I had forgotten, really, how important it is sometimes to care for people who are near us, especially those who are easy to overlook.

And I had forgotten how many are the families to which I belong. I had forgotten how much some people near me need my care without question as to what I will give in return.

I had forgotten.

But then I smelled the roasting turkey.

Retirement workshop offered

A one-day workshop, "Transitioning into Retirement," will be offered from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 23, at the Canfield Educational Center, 170 Grosse Pointe Blvd. in Grosse Pointe Farms.

Peg O'Flynn, trained facilitator for the Christian Retirement Challenges Profile, clinical social worker, teacher and consultant at St. John Bon Secours Senior Community, will present 15 retirement challenges, including career reorientation, personal empowerment, physical wellness, quality of life, respect for leisure and more.

"Besides adolescence, there is no time in life when we face as many challenges, changes, anxieties and losses as we do in retirement," O'Flynn said. "This day will give many practical suggestions for learning how to thrive, not merely survive, the retirement years."

Registration fee is $35 and includes a 23-page personal assessment tool.

The program is sponsored by the Lay Theological Academy with financial support from the Grosse Pointe Christian Educators.

To register, call O'Flynn at (313) 343-0573 or Sister Janet Schaeffler at (313) 885-7022.

Great American Smokeout

The American Cancer Society

Happy 20th Birthday to the American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout.

For the past two decades, staff and volunteers of the society have helped millions of Americans quit smoking by proving to themselves that they can quit for a day, and — ultimately — for a lifetime.

It started on Nov. 18, 1976, when the California division of the American Cancer Society got nearly one million of the state's five million smokers to quit for the day.

Since then, the concept of the Great American Smokeout has grown. In a new twist to an old problem, the American Cancer Society is now focusing its efforts on children and teenagers, because most smokers start before they reach the age of 18.

By helping young people resist starting to smoke in the first place, the society hopes that future generations will not have to struggle to break an addiction to nicotine.

Efforts have been directed toward reaching preteens in the week of the Great American Smokeout. The preteen promotion is a hilarious, upbeat program targeted toward fifth-through eighth-graders.

Using curriculum, fun goodies, gripping posters, informative brochures and audiovisual materials, kids learn about the dangers of tobacco to their health.

On Nov. 21, students participating in the program will "scream" out against smoking in the culmination of the program, the American Cancer Society's Great American SmokeScream.

The students will be encouraged to join their healthy, smoke-free lungs to a chorus of screams with their classmates. The American Cancer Society believes that if kids can get through school without smoking, they probably will never smoke as adults.

For those children of the computer age, there's an opportunity to learn about the dangers of tobacco use in an interactive way. The American Cancer Society's Internet web site can be accessed through the society's home page: <http://www.cancer.org>.

On the home page, users can click on the Great American SmokeScream icon to find facts, games and contests, as well as celebrity insights into the dangers of using tobacco.

It is estimated that every cigarette a person smokes takes about 12 minutes off his or her life. That sobering statistic is one reason why staff and volunteers of the society work so hard to help smokers become non-smokers.

During the week of the Great American Smokeout, participating local companies and businesses encourage their employees to quit smoking for the day. The American Cancer Society provides many different types of literature to assist in this effort... everything from smoking statistics to posters to tips for creating an anti-smoking campaign in a work environment.

Since 1977, we've helped millions of smokers quit. Since the inception of the Great American Smokeout, the smoking rate of American adults has dropped from 36 percent to 25 percent.

The American Cancer Society recognized that smoking carries with it a serious health risk, and is dedicated to minimizing those dangers by educating kids about the dangers of smoking and providing an opportunity for adults to prove to themselves that they really can quit.

Why quit smoking?

Here's what happens — and when — if you stop smoking:
20 Minutes: Blood pressure and pulse rate drops. Body temperature of hands and feet increases to normal.

8 Hours: Carbon monoxide level in blood drops to normal. Oxygen level in blood increases to normal.

24 Hours: Chance of heart attack decreases.

48 Hours: Nerve endings start regrowing. Ability to smell and taste is enhanced.

2 Weeks to 3 Months: Circulation improves. Walking becomes easier. Lung function increases.

1 to 9 Months: Coughing, sinus congestion, fatigue, shortness of breath decrease.

1 Year: Excess risk of coronary heart disease is half that of a smoker.

5 Years: Lung cancer death rate decreases by almost half. Stroke risk is reduced to that of a nonsmoker. Risk of cancer of the mouth, throat and esophagus is half that of a smoker.

10 Years: Lung cancer death rate similar to that of nonsmokers. Risk of cancer of the mouth, throat, bladder, kidney and pancreas decreases.

15 Years: Risk of coronary heart disease is that of a nonsmoker.

Dr. Antoun Manganas

Henry Ford Cottage psychiatrist will discuss forgetfulness, confusion, signs of dementia

In today's fast-paced world, everyone forgets things once in a while. If, however, loss of memory or the ability to think clearly causes a person to struggle through each day, the problem could be dementia.

Dementia is a gradual loss of mental abilities, often accompanied by personality or behavior changes. It is important to note that dementia is not a disease, but rather a condition that results from certain medical or psychological problems which may be treatable. And, while dementia is not a normal part of aging, people over 65 are at greatest risk for developing some form of the condition.

Learn more about the signs, symptoms and causes of dementia — and what can be done about it — at a free Cottage Community Program.

Dr. Antoun Manganas, a psychiatrist at Henry Ford Cottage Hospital, will present "Forgetfulness, Confusion and Other Signs of Dementia" from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Monday, Nov. 18, in the hospital boardrooms.

Manganas will discuss how to get to the source of the problem and the available treatment methods. In many cases, treatment can restore mental abilities if a reversible, underlying condition is found. There also are ways people with irreversible dementia — and those who care for them — can be helped in managing their lives.

In Touch With Your Skin

by Lisa A. Manz-Dulac, MD

Dermatologists are often asked by patients how to best protect their healthy summer tans.

Unfortunately, there is no such thing as a "healthy" tan. Along with the desired "glow" come the side effects of dryness and skin damage, possibly leading to skin cancer at a later time.

Nevertheless, to keep your skin looking and feeling as healthy as possible, there are several things everyone should do, regardless of whether you are a well tanned sun worshiper or not.

First, sun screens should be applied whenever you are in the sun. Many cosmetics now contain effective screens. Look for SPF's of at least 15 in the products you use.

Secondly, moisturizers and other products can help restore and maintain the look and feel of youthful skin.

To learn more about advances in skin care products contact your dermatologist, or call us at Eastside Dermatology, Dr. Lisa A. Manz-Dulac and Associates (313) 884-3380.

Arts Council promotes community's cultural organizations

Grosse Pointe is unique. "How are we unique?" you may ask.

We are the only community in Michigan to have five separate governments.

We have the history of a great culture going back to Cadillac. It has been brought to our attention by the Michigan Council of the Arts that we are admired by other communities for this very reason.

The strip farms that were created by the early settlers have developed into gracious homes and streets.

We Grosse Pointers are family-oriented people. Grosse Pointe attracts young families who are interested in our excellent school system, our churches, our parks and our access to the Great Lakes. We want to keep this ball rolling.

This is why the Grosse Pointe Arts Council was formed — to preserve our cultural heritage and promote our future growth in the same thoughtful, high caliber mode as in the past.

Our cultural organizations give us activities that keep us exciting, vital and interesting to all ages. They keep our young talent here.

We must foster our wonderful skills and talents through constant support and many hurrahs.

This is why Grosse Pointe needs an arts council.

Physician to discuss plastic surgery

There's much more to cosmetic surgery these days than the traditional facelift. New tools and techniques, including lasers, are being used to lift drooping eyelids and brows, reshape noses and resurface wrinkled or scarred skin.

Dr. Herman P. Houin, plastic surgeon at Henry Ford Medical Center-Pierson Clinic in Grosse Pointe Farms, will present a free community program, "Faces (and Other Uplifting Opportunities)" on Tuesday, Nov. 19, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at Henry Ford Cottage Hospital, Boardroom A - lower level.

Houin will review the results of various facial rejuvenation procedures using before and after photos of women and men. He will discuss who is — and who is not — a good candidate for what is now called "facial aesthetic surgery," and what you should — and shouldn't — expect from it.

Houin also will take individual questions from those in attendance and take-home literature will be available.

"Faces (and Other Uplifting Opportunities)" is one in the series of WomanWise informative programs at Henry Ford Cottage Hospital designed especially to meet the health care needs of today's active women and those they care for. For reservations, call (313) 640-2425.

HAVE A PLEASANT TRY AT PERFECTION BRIDGE BY WOODY BOYD

The simplicity and sensibility of one's bridge culture is in no way a hindrance to the player's intellect.

I can't remember who gave me my first bridge lesson, but the sophistication of our game has, since then, been significantly intensified and so has the instruction.

In the past few years I have had the pleasure of observing some of the vast cadre of top-notch teachers. Our Judy Thomas measures up with the best. She has the experience, dedication, enthusiasm and disposition to be effective, and those values are most important. Couple that with the American Contract Bridge League's Audrey Grant training text which she subscribes to, and you have a marvelous program.

Her mark of sharpness took a long time to develop, but some of the credit rests upon her husband Don's drive, for he got her started some 20 years ago. Both of these east siders became life masters with remarkable haste in spite of their parental devotion to raising three lovely ladies — Karen, Loretta and Susan — who, because of other interests, have yet to play the game.

Now that they've flown the coop you'd think Judy and Don would have a little more leisure and let-up, but both have filled the family calendar with a fun, but fierce schedule of directing at duplicate which allows them little time for their own ritual. Between the War Memorial, Neighborhood Club and St. Clair Shores they have seven games a week that generate over 120 tables of play.

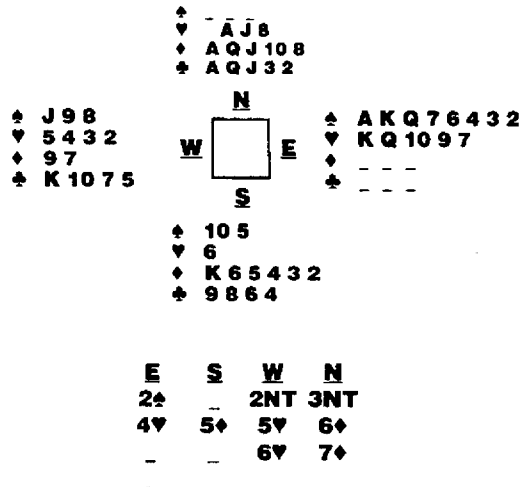

I asked Judy whether she prefers to declare or defend and the answer was sui generis.

"When playing with Don I love to declare, for he gets me into some very provocative contracts and that's a challenge."

Her favorite hand was also most uncommon. Not one either played, but a magnificent exhibit from the Charlie Goren days when his famous team of Sobel, Schenken, Leventritt, Ogost and Koytchou was winning everything in sight.

Charlie wrote about it some 45 years ago and it's a nobleman's trophy that can't be matched.

Both Vulnerable

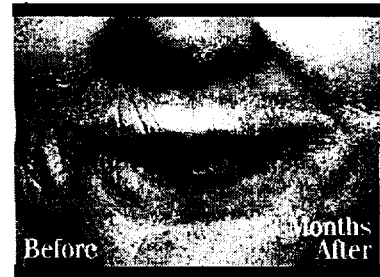

Goren referred to the hand as the small-club incident that came from the famous Cavendish Club in New York City. The price each pair was playing for was more than a contract of potatoes on the commodity exchange, so you can be sure it was very serious bridge.

Judy showed me the hand (which I had never seen before, even though I had known the participants) and asked, "Which do you want, to declare or defend?" Naturally I was given my due to peruse and then guessed what it could make.

"Oh!" she roared. "I've got you! Everytime declarer plays a club from his hand, West must cover and the contract fails."

Naturally I told her that was why I never got involved in that elevation of play. It would have been just too much for my nerves.

South Africa: land of natural beauty; political, social changes

By Alex Suzek
Special Writer

Pretoria — The wealth, stark beauty and vitality of the Transvaal State, where Johannesburg and Pretoria are the principal cities, more than compensate for the uneasiness of the political and social transition now underway.

Breakfasting on the garden terrace of a gracious home in the Brooklyn district of Pretoria we are surrounded by colorful songbirds and flowers. The lavender jacaranda and crimson bougainvillea are in bloom. The scent of jasmine fills the air. The natural beauty is overwhelming.

Only a few blocks away, workers are cleaning up in the aftermath of a demonstration by students at the University of Pretoria. They were protesting the appointment of a conservative vice regent. Some students told us that outside leadership came in to organize it. There are racial implications. Now the government and the university administration are seeking a compromise.

In the surrounding capital city, the streets are alive. Shops and offices look prosperous. People go about their business. Cars fill the streets. Dress everywhere is smart looking but casual to suit the pleasant, sunny weather. This is an ideal climate in October (springtime). Daily temperatures range from 60 to 80 degrees. Brief showers freshen the air several times a week.

We socialize with a party of Afrikaners (descendants of the original Boer settlers) at a game farm 100 miles out of town. It is far enough away to put us in the wilderness of the real bush veld. Acacia trees and scrub growth hold down the dry, yellow soil. African game roams free on 2,000 acres, surrounded by a high fence. South Africans come here to hunt for sport and meat.

We spend morning and late afternoon in an ATV sighting and photographing impala, antelope, giraffe, wildebeest, elephant and more. After repeated turns down remote trails, we sight hippos submerged in a large pond. Then we pursue a herd of rhinos through the bush. A big bull pauses and seems about to charge, then turns and fades into the undergrowth.

Gathered around the open grill for a breifleiss (barbecue) we watch a glowing African sunset as the conversation turns wistfully to the beauty of this rugged land.

One Afrikaner calls the desolate Karoo of the Cape province his home and voices regretful resignation that his National Party lost control of the country.

They have a sense that apartheid has not really been abolished but is being turned against them. Members of Mandela's ANC party are taking over the bureaucracy in government offices and services.

A few professional Afrikaners are emigrating, especially to Australia. But our new friends are fourth- and fifth-generation South Africans. They are ready to adapt to the new order in a pluralistic society. No one knows how the transition will go but they are working to make their democracy succeed.

Meanwhile, life here is still good. Prosperous professionals and business leaders enjoy beautiful homes. Servants are plentiful and wages low. The supermarkets overflow with delicious native produce.

We take tea with friends in the embassy district. Their house encloses a tropical garden four stories high. Small talk dwells on local arts, business and personal security. Facing the reality of what is now a free society with high unemployment, most homeowners take extra precautions. Fences are high, doors and windows have wrought iron screens.

Wary of the occasional snatch thief and car jacker, drivers keep car windows closed and doors locked in slow moving Johannesburg traffic and never leave a parked car unlocked. They take small comfort in the news that this is not unlike life in other major cities of the world.

In truth, incidents bannared in the press don't seem to intrude any more than in Europe or North America. Life here is as normal as anywhere and in some ways more comfortable.

For successful members of all sectors and colors of South African society, life can be downright luxurious. Touring the elegant Waterkloof district on the slopes of a ridge with commanding views of Pretoria, we see palatial homes surrounded by manicured gardens. New ones are being built in every available space.

The notorious black township of Soweto has its own section of gracious homes and gardens, along with the infamous shanty districts. Winnie Mandela is one of its best-known residents.

With calm restored, the campus of the University of Pretoria makes an attractive destination. It is a beautiful university where any aspiring student can seek a degree.

There is no sign of the recent demonstration. Bulletin boards announce courses in both Afrikaans and English. Actually the country has 11 official languages, acknowledging the important tribal identities like Zulu, Swazi and Xhosa that enrich and complicate the politics. You can often hear the musical sounds of those tongues on the streets and in the markets.

We are offered a "culture shock" with an invitation to a rugby match. Along with soccer, rugby is a national sport and spirits run high. The North Transvaal Blue Bulls are to fight for the quarter-finals in the national competition. The partisan crowd generates intense excitement as the fast moving, continuous action moves up and down the field.

Unlike our football, which it resembles, rugby play continues for extended periods. The strategy emphasizes lateral passes and continuous, broken field running. Kicking the ball on the run, somewhat like punting, is another frequent device. The game is lively and lots of fun to watch. As the Blue Bulls win their chance at the semi-finals, the crowd roars approval.

As we stream from the stadium, people are exuberant but orderly and drivers are patient and polite in the slow process of exiting jammed lots and double parked streets.

Next morning early, it is a fast trip by car to the Johannesburg International Airport where we fly north to Botswana for a real safari in the Okavango river delta and swamp. It is one of the best preserved natural areas left in Africa.

Senior sweeper Mike Gressman hoists the state championship trophy after University Liggett School beat Elk Rapids 2-1 last Saturday in the Class C boys soccer final. In the foreground is coach David Backhurst.

Boys soccer team brings ULS its third fall championship

By Dana Wakjil
Special Writer

As the realization of University Liggett School's Class C boys soccer title started to sink in, so did the cooler full of water dumped on coach David Backhurst at the end of the game.

But Backhurst didn't mind the unexpected bath. "It feels good — nice and refreshing," he said.

Refreshing also described ULS' 2-1 victory over Elk Rapids in the state championship game at Bloomfield Hills Andover Saturday.

The Elks eliminated the Knights last year in the semifinals and had beaten them soundly in an August scrimmage.

"Given the fact that they knocked us out last year in the state semis and we were able to come back just shows tremendous character on the part of the boys," said Backhurst, who guided ULS to boys soccer championships in 1982 and 1983.

"They were cleaning up on everybody on the other side of the state. I talked to a lot of coaches before the game. I knew exactly what they had — a big, strong, physical team — and the boys responded tremendously."

The Knights finished with a record of 19-3-1.

"Another number to remember is 89254," Backhurst said. "That's the state ranking of the five teams we beat in the state tournament. Everybody we played was ranked, but that just made us tougher."

The Knights came out strong in the first half with midfielder

Ralph Harik getting a good scoring chance one minute into the game. His shot hit the post. Eight seconds later Elk Rapids goalkeeper Bruce Veliquette made a save on Berc Backhurst, the coach's son.

The Elks picked up the pace after that but got nothing past freshman goalie Dan Ferrin. Both teams played a physical game with play halting mid-way through the half when Knight forward Peter Birgbauer crashed into Veliquette. Veliquette retreated to the sidelines for a minute before returning.

ULS forward Jason Campbell took a hard shot to the face off a teammate's kick and sat with an ice pack on his face before re-entering the game. In the 33rd minute, Campbell took a pass from Birgbauer and booted it into the far left corner past the sprawling Veliquette to give the Knights a 1-0 lead at half-time.

The second half was only 11 seconds old when Elk forward Rick Swift lived up to his name by taking the kickoff down the left side and shooting the ball off the left post. The ball found its way into the net and the shot tied the game at 1-1.

Coach Backhurst had seen this before and had cautioned his players to watch out for early Elk pressure after the second half kickoff.

"We had a scrimmage against them in August and they did the same thing — right after the kickoff they went down and scored and we warned them at halftime," he said. "I just couldn't believe my eyes that they pulled that off again but then the boys came back, much to their credit."

Ferrin remembered the first time but couldn't prevent Swift's score. "I don't know what they do. They just get it down there so quick and they come out with so much intensity and you just gotta make a decision and if you don't, basically the ball winds up in the net. I didn't see it at all. It just flew right by. It hit the post, I looked back and it was there," said Ferrin.

With just over 15 minutes to play, ULS midfielder C.T. Brown snared a pass from Berc Backhurst and lobbed it over Veliquette's head. The Knights regained the lead, 2-1, and all that was left to do was hold on until they could celebrate.

Ferrin needed to make one save with a minute and a half to play. That was Elk Rapids' last opportunity to tie the game and force overtime. As he has done all year, the freshman made it look easy. The seconds ticked by quickly and then the celebration started.

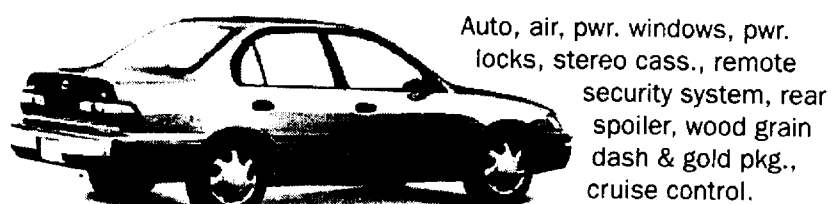

"It's just a dream come true," coach Backhurst said. "It's been really an amazing season because we lost some games early on. We've just gotten better and better going through those tremendous battles against Gabriel Richard in the regional final (4-3 shootout win) and then Lake Fenton in the semifinals (3-2 shootout win)."

"I can't tell you how much character these boys have to be able to withstand that kind of pressure and to be able to come

Norsemen battle back to beat Brother Rice

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

There's a new member of the Leonard Harris fan club. He's the veteran Brother Rice football coach Al Fracassa, who saw a lot more of Harris than he wanted last Saturday as the senior running back led Grosse Pointe North to a 35-31 victory over the Warriors in a Class A regional semifinal playoff game.

"Harris was the difference," Fracassa said after the game. "He's a heckuva back. They controlled the line of scrimmage and he was tough to stop. They rushed for 230 yards in 25 carries and scored three touchdowns for the Norsemen, who'll play at Ferndale Saturday at 1:30 p.m. in the region championship game. Harris also won his personal duel with Rice running back Brian Marshall, who gained 96 yards in 22 carries.

"I take it upon myself to play better when I'm playing against a top running back," Harris said. "Brian Marshall is a very, very good running back, so it made it extra special to have a game like this. My offensive line did a great job of opening holes for me."

The line, which includes guards Troy Bergman and Jerry Cardani, tackles Scott Vandenberghe and Ryan Stinson and center John Trupiano, has played well all season helping Harris rush for 2,198 yards and 28 touchdowns. Tight end Jim Simon and fullback Chris Morkut also did a good job blocking for the Norsemen.

Harris gained 230 yards despite missing the last 6 1/2 minutes of the first half after aggravating a toe injury in a collision with North receiver Frank Sumner IV. Both players limped off the field, but both were able to return.

Harris left the field on a golf cart, had the foot iced and taped during halftime and returned in time for the second half.

"This is something that's bothered me most of the year," Harris said. "It's like turf toe. I hurt it returning a punt against Port Huron Northern (in the second game of the season). That's why I haven't been returning punts."

North scored the first time it had the football, marching 77 yards in five plays. Quarterback Steve Champagne, who once again showed the poise of a four-year starter, completed a 25-yard third-down pass to Vince Meli to set up Harris' 46-yard touchdown run. Champagne kicked the first of his three extra points.

Rice came right back to tie the game, driving 60 yards in five plays. The Warriors scored on a two-yard pass from Eric Marcy to Dave Matthews, who caught the ball in the corner of the end zone.

North regained the lead on Harris' score from 13 yards. Key plays in the 69-yard drive were runs of 14 and 19 yards by Harris, a 10-yard run by Morkut and a costly offside penalty against Rice, which gave the Norsemen a first down at the Warriors' 42.

North stopped a long Rice drive at the Norsemen 15. The Warriors also stopped themselves on a touchdown run by Ben Rowden with 45 seconds left. An illegal procedure penalty. North came up with a big defensive play when Rowden was stopped on fourth and 16 on a fake punt attempt. The Norsemen took over on the Warriors' 46 and two plays later, Champagne hit Sumner for a 45-yard touchdown.

Sumner caught the ball on the five despite having Rice defender Ron Jackson in his face. He then broke a tackle and danced into the end zone with 51 seconds left in the first half.

"That was great concentration on Frankie's part," said Ferndale's receiver's father, North coach Frank Sumner. "That's a tough ball to catch when it goes through the defender's arms like that."

Champine, who had his extra point blocked after Harris' second touchdown, got the point back by hitting Joe Ellis for a two-point conversion.

As good as the first half was for the Norsemen, the second half started like a nightmare.

Nick Aubrey fumbled the opening kickoff of the half and Rice recovered at the North 34. "That's not how you want to start the third quarter," coach Sumner said. "But Rice was growing on the kickoff. They really hit Nick. They were determined to get back into the game."

And they did. Marcy, who completed 25 of 37 passes for 308 yards, capped the short drive with a four-yard touchdown pass to Matthews.

The Warriors stopped North on its next possession and Rice went 58 yards in seven plays. Marshall scored on a six-yard run and Kevin Gerback kicked the extra point to tie the game at 21-21 with 2:14 left in the third quarter.

Brother Rice continued its comeback two plays after the kickoff when Jackson intercepted a pass and returned it 22 yards to the North 33.

The Norsemen stopped the kick at the 14 and Gerback kicked a 31-yard field goal to give the Warriors a 24-21 advantage with 10:19 to play.

But North wasn't about to give up. The Norsemen took the kickoff and Champagne engineered a 76-yard, eight-play drive that the senior quarterback capped with a one-yard sneak on fourth and inches. He completed a 25-yard third-down pass to Vince Meli to set up Harris' 46-yard touchdown run. Champagne kicked the first of his three extra points.

"We just lined up with our best against their best," coach Sumner said. "This is the proudest moment of my coaching career. The kids played real hard and real physical against one of the best teams in the state."

The Warriors' next drive was stopped by key interception by North linebacker Jess Thibodeau at the Rice 35.

Neither team was able to get a first down on its next possession. North took over on the Rice 28 with a little more than three minutes left and four plays later, Harris scored from the 20 to give the Norsemen a 35-24 lead with 45 seconds left.

The Warriors answered quickly, driving 58 yards in three plays — all pass completions by Marcy. They scored on a 14-yard strike to Matthews with eight seconds to go.

Rice attempted an onside kick, but North recovered and ran out the final seconds.

"I don't like to see us give up this many points, but I guess this is the year of the offense in high school football," Sumner said.

The Warriors finished 8-2, while North takes a 9-1 record into its game with unbeaten Ferndale. The Eagles rallied from a 17-point deficit to beat Berkeley 35-24.

Grosse Pointe North coaches Frank Sumner, right, and Nick Thomson shout instructions to the Norsemen during last Saturday's pre-regional victory over Brother Rice.

Dragons finish with a flourish

The Grosse Pointe Soccer Association Dragons under-10 travel team finished strong with victories over two teams from Troy and a 1-1 tie with the Pointe Girls Soccer Association Mustangs '87.

After winning the under-10 division at the Romeo Peach Festival tournament, the Dragons lost four of their first six regular season games. Megan Warren scored three goals during the first half. The Dragons made some adjustments and reached their goal of "winning" the second half of the season with a 3-2-1 record.

The first victory of the second half was a 3-0 shutout of the Rochester Lightning. Chrissie Keersmaekers started the scoring with a corner kick that curved around the Lightning goalie inches from the far post. Jordan McIlroy then scored twice, both assisted by Andrea Savage.

Strong midfield support came from Warren, Erin Deane and Caroline Hartmann. Kelly Ritter, Lauren Jesnig and Brook Ziehr were defensive standouts. McIlroy and Warren divided the goaltending.

The Dragons then fell 2-0 to the North Macomb Thundercats and 4-1 to the Birmingham Blazers. McIlroy turned in shutout goaltending in the first half against the unbeaten Thundercats, who won the league championship.

Kiera Corbin, Julie West and Erica Coates provided strong midfield support and Caitlin Bennett and Savage had fine defensive games. Warren had the only goal against the Blazers on a perfectly-placed penalty shot.

McIlroy scored both goals as the Dragons beat the Troy Flash 2-1. Warren assisted on the first goal and the assist on the second came from a perfect corner kick by Keersmaekers, allowing McIlroy to fire a shot from the 18-yard line.

North runs away with MAC Red title

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe North's girls swimming team was such an overwhelming favorite to win the Macomb Area Conference Red Division championship that the Norsemen had to set a higher goal for themselves.

"We wanted to win every swimming event," said coach Mike O'Connor after North finished with 374 points to 263 for runner-up Grosse Pointe South.

"I didn't know if we could win the medley relay because Eisenhower has a good breast-stroker and a good backstroker. I was pretty confident about the two freestyle relays. I didn't know about the breast-stroke and backstroke either because of those two fast kids from Ike, but Cortney (Piper) and Michelle (Vasapolli) came through for us."

The Norsemen did win every swimming event, but O'Connor was pleased with more than that.

"It's nice to win every event, but even better is the way the kids moved up in both the consolation and final heats," he said. "And also the number of kids that made it to the second day. They're the ones that help you pick up points in a meet like this."

That's not to diminish the value of North's "MAC-4" — the four girls who won four gold medals apiece.

The quartet was led by swimmer of the meet Rachele Atrasz, who won the 200-yard freestyle in a meet record 1:55.27 and took first in the 100 butterfly.

Piper won the 100 freestyle in a meet-record time of 55.59 and was first in the 100 breast-stroke. Jennifer Reck won the 200 individual medley and the 500 freestyle, while senior captain Vasapolli won the 50 freestyle and 100 backstroke.

The four also swam on North's three winning relay teams.

Vasapolli, Lindsey Knost, Jaime Taylor and Piper took first in the 200 medley relay. Piper, Jane Kopf, Atrasz and Reck combined to win the 200 freestyle relay, while members of the winning 400 freestyle relay team were Vasapolli, Kim Feikens, Reck and Atrasz.

Other outstanding performances came from Feikens and Genna Sorget in the 200 freestyle; Lisa Bergmann and Theresa Northey in the 200 individual medley; Kopf and Knost in the 50 freestyle; Rebecca Dube, her first 500 and got into the finals.

"It was a fun meet. We had a lot of good performances." Grosse Pointe South swimmers turned in some impressive performances, too.

Mary Sullivan was a solid second in the 50 freestyle and also took third in the 100 backstroke. Julia Upmeyer was second in the 500 freestyle and third in the 200 freestyle. Amanda Dumler posted thirds in the 200 IM and the 100 butterfly.

Following are the North and South swimmers who placed in the meet.

Peters leads North to win over South

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

If last Thursday turned out to be Molly Peters' final game against crosstown rival Grosse Pointe South, the Grosse Pointe North senior wasn't going to let it be a defeat.

"I got the feeling that Molly just wasn't going to let us lose this one," North coach Gary Bennett said after Peters scored 11 of her 13 points in the second half to lead the Norsemen to a 37-28 victory over the Blue Devils in the Macomb Area Conference Red Division girls basketball game.

"She scored six points in the third quarter and had some real crucial baskets. Whenever South scored, Molly responded by coming down and scoring. Her defense was also a factor."

Although Peters' statistics might not be as impressive as they were a year ago, she's playing just as well, if not better.

"Molly is a very good defensive player," Bennett said. "She's playing better defense off the ball this year than she did last year. She's always been very good defensively on the ball."

South held a 12-11 halftime lead, but North outscored the Blue Devils 16-5 in the third quarter.

"The beginning of the third quarter is always real important," Bennett said. "Our defense was very good and we just executed a little better on offense."

South came from 14 points behind in the second half to beat the Norsemen when the two teams met earlier this season.

North had contributions from several players as the Norsemen improved their record to 10-5 in the division and 12-6 overall.

"Kristen Halicki and Michelle Champine played their best off the bench," Bennett said. "Kristen had eight rebounds and gave a great effort going after loose balls and rebounds. Michelle played her best defensive game and she took care of the ball well. That kept her on the floor longer."

Lindsay Hawkins did a good job of taking care of the ball, especially in the second half, and Claire Kotwick and Jenny Pagel were outstanding defensively.

"Claire has developed into a very good defensive player," Bennett said. "Jenny is willing to work hard on defense, whether she's playing the post or the point. That's something you don't always see from a post player."

Lindsay Simmon had nine points and 11 rebounds. Kotwick had seven points and five steals.

Kelly Neumann led South with eight points.

The Blue Devils played without starting forward Caitlin Shapiro, who missed the game because of another commitment at the school.

Earlier, the Norsemen beat Utica 38-21.

"It was an excellent defensive game and our speed helped a lot," Bennett said. "They had trouble getting into their offense. If they beat us initially, we were able to get back and cover up."

Ten of North's 13 players broke into the scoring column. Simmon led the Norsemen with 11 points and 14 rebounds. Peters added eight points.

In South's other game last week, the Blue Devils lost a MAC crossover to Warren Woods-Tower 40-28.

Shapiro led South with eight points.

Samantha Theisen had 16 points and 11 rebounds for the 15-2 Titans.

North begins state tournament play Monday against Regina in the district hosted by the Norsemen.

South drew a first-round bye and will play Detroit Finney on Wednesday.

up against a highly ranked and very capable Elk Rapids team. It's just amazing they could do that."

Brown got a chance to enjoy the victory as soon as it was over, not right after his game-winning goal.

"When it went in, I was concentrating on getting back on defense. I didn't want to get burned like we did in the first 11 seconds of the second half there," Brown said.

Relieved is what his coach was when the ball sailed in.

"C.T! It was a great shot. It was the most beautiful sight I've seen in my life, I think, that shot going in. It was great," Backhurst said.

Great is what many people call Ferrin, the freshman goalkeeper who set a school record with 12 shutouts this season and made four saves in the championship game.

Teammate Brown said, "He's the best keeper I've seen in a long time. He comes up with everything."

Coach Backhurst echoed the sentiment, saying, "He was huge, having to go through those shootouts. He made a couple of big saves in the shootouts. In the Lake Fenton game in overtime they had a ball that he tipped off the crossbar. It came out and he redirected it back downfield. That could have been the game."

Ferrin credits playing with the U.S. Olympic Development Regional Team for preparing him for the pressure of the season. And now that he's tasted success, he wants more.

"It's great. Freshman year, you can't get better than that. Twelve shutouts, it's great. Hopefully we'll have three more [titles]," he said.

Three may be the magic number for ULS. The soccer squad joins the school's girls tennis and field hockey teams for what is believed to be a record three championships in one season.

ULS works overtime in state semifinal

By Chuck Klonke

University Liggett School's soccer team almost didn't get to last Saturday's Class C state championship game.

It took 90 minutes of regulation, 30 minutes of overtime and a shootout before the Knights turned back fifth-ranked Lake Fenton 3-2 in a semifinal game at Pontiac Notre Dame Prep.

"The win over (Riverview Gabriel) Richard took a lot out of us, physically and mentally," said ULS coach David Backhurst.

The game started with a strong wind at the Knights' backs and ULS took advantage with a goal five minutes into the game.

Ralph Harik sent a corner kick to Peter Birgbauer, who scored from a difficult angle.

The Knights made it 2-0 with about five minutes left in the first half when Harik scored from Brad Cenko.

"Ralph's shot was perfectly placed," Backhurst said.

The second half was like a different game. Six minutes into the half, the Blue Devils scored from a scramble in which ULS goalie Dan Ferrin was screened.

With 13 minutes left in regulation, Lake Fenton scored again to tie the game at 2-2. Now Backhurst was worried.

"The wind was a critical factor and we were reeling from (Lake Fenton's) onslaught," the coach said. "We were slow. It looked like our state title hopes were going down the drain."

Backhurst made some substitutions to bolster his defense, hoping that ULS would be able to hold off the Blue Devils until the Knights got the wind at their backs again.

"Then we lost the flip, so we had to play into the wind during the first 15 minute overtime," Backhurst said.

Lake Fenton had two excellent scoring chances during the first extra period. Ferrin got his fingertips on a long shot and deflected it off the crossbar.

"If he doesn't get his fingers on that, it's a goal," Backhurst said.

The Blue Devils also shot wide when they had an open net.

"We dodged a couple of bullets in that overtime," the coach said.

ULS had some chances in the second overtime, but the Knights couldn't capitalize, either.

The teams then went into a shootout—the second straight for ULS, which beat second-ranked Richard in the regional final.

"The same five players who took the shots against Richard said they wanted to do it again," Backhurst said.

Cenko opened the shootout round with a goal, but Lake Fenton also scored. Harik, who was the only ULS player to miss his penalty kick against Richard, connected this time but so did Lake Fenton's shooter.

Birgbauer tallied again for the Knights, while the Blue Devils' third shooter hit the post. Jonathan Kish gave ULS a two-goal lead in the shootout and his goal clinched the victory because Ferrin made a diving save on Lake Fenton's fourth attempt.

"I wondered after that how we'd be able to recover in two days for the championship game because we seemed sluggish from Friday to Wednesday, but I guess the adrenalin kicked in," Backhurst said.

The season ended with ULS beating Elk Rapids 2-1 for its third state boys soccer championship and first since 1983.

South completes a fine JV season

By Chuck Klonke
Sports Editor

Grosse Pointe South's junior varsity football team opened the season on a high note and closed it the same way.

"One of our goals was to beat the two teams we lost to last year as freshmen — Notre Dame and (Grosse Pointe) North," said coach Dan Griesbaum.

"We beat Notre Dame 35-12 in our opener and beat North 14-7 in the last game. The North game was a great JV football game."

In between those two contests, the Blue Devils won the Macomb Area Conference Gold Division title with a 4-0 record. South's league wins came over Anchor Bay (48-0), L'Anse Creuse (24-8), Dakota (34-22) and L'Anse Creuse North (7-6).

South also won crossover games against Sterling Heights (42-8) and Lake Shore (36-6). The Blue Devils' only blemish in the 8-1 season was a 24-6 loss to Romeo.

South jumped out to a 6-0 lead against North on a one-yard run by Dan Griesbaum. North went ahead 7-6 in the fourth quarter.

With about two minutes remaining, Frank Mabry VII and Shawnta Santos blocked a North punt and Justin Simon recovered and ran to the Norsemen's five. Two plays later, Griesbaum scored on a five-yard run and tight end Adam Maloof scored the two-point conversion.

"This was a great group of kids," coach Griesbaum said. "Sixteen of them are all-academic and eight of them have 3.7 grade-point averages or better.

"They have the opportunity to have an outstanding record at the varsity level the next two years if they keep focused and continue doing what they're supposed to."

South outscored its opponents 246-93, averaging more than 27 points-per-game.

"A lot of that credit goes to offensive coordinator Lincoln Stocks," coach Griesbaum said.

Eric Dunlap and Dan Griesbaum each scored 11 touchdowns and a two-point conversion for a team-leading 68 points. Maloof scored 34 points. Andrew Hendrie kicked 16 extra points.

Griesbaum was the leading rusher with 539 yards and John Kurap had 494. Marc Belloli completed 51 percent of his passes for 948 yards and 12 touchdowns.

The coaches credited the starting offensive line for much of the production. The group included Jessie Walker, Charles Missant, Dennis Pascoe, Brien Morrell, Marty Harms and Maloof.

Dunlap was the leading receiver with 19 catches for 232 yards. Maloof had 17 catches for 214 yards and Colin Morawski had 10 receptions for 159 yards.

Santos was the leading tackler with 69 stops. He was followed by Maloof with 51, Griesbaum 48, Simon 45, Mabry 41, Harms 39 and Morrell 32. Scott Gallagher had four interceptions and Dunlap picked off three passes. Hendrie had a 33.2 punting average.

All-academic players were Matt Bedan, Belloli, Dunlap, Gallagher, Griesbaum, Harms, Hendrie, Kurap, Tim Mooney, Morrell, Morawski, Drew Noecker, Anthony O'Neill, Pat Reynolds, Simon and Joe Slavik.

Other members of the squad were Jeremy Linne, Mark ZurSchmiede, Nick Lodzinski, Dan Roth, Dominic O'Grady, Kyle Bott and Pat VanCamp.

Grosse Pointe South's junior varsity football team celebrates its thrilling 14-7 victory over Grosse Pointe North in the season finale. The win over the Norsemen gave the Blue Devils and 8-1 record and avenged one of South's two freshman defeats in 1995.

Hand tool safety tips for the do-it-yourselfers

The Hand Tools Institute HTI an association of US, and Canadian hand tool manufacturers, says that with the rising labor cost of professional craftsmen, more and more homeowners and other do-it-yourselfers are making their own repairs to save money.

In the process of performing the unfamiliar electrical, plumbing or carpentry work, the novice may also be facing the task with hand tools either not suited for the job or misusing the one he or she has available. The results can be devastating, ranging from damaging costly materials and tools to serious personal injury.

This can be avoided, HTI states, if the tool user follows some simple rules.

First, be certain that the hand tools used are the correct ones to do the job.

For example, many persons are surprised to learn that there are at least 10 different types of wrenches, over 125 types of pliers, 12 types of screwdrivers, 15 types of hammers and many other tools that can save hours of labor and give the job a professional look.

HTI also recommends the use of safety goggles when working with hand tools. Chances are you will be picking up a variety of tools on any given job. While some have more potential for personal injury than others, it pays to protect your eyes for the duration of the project. Here are some added pointers:

- Plastic covered pliers handles are for comfort only, not protection from electrical current.

- Claw hammers are for driving and removing finishing and common unhardened nails. Don't strike other steel tools such as chisels, punches or masonry nails with a claw hammer.

- Sockets should never be used on power or impact wrenches. Hand sockets usually have a bright finish, but many have a black finish.

- Never use an axe to strike a wood-splitting wedge—use a woodchopper's maul or a sledge and never use the axe as a splitting wedge.

- Never use any truck tool, such as a chisel or punch, that is chipped or mushroomed. Discard it.

- Don't use a screwdriver for prying, punching, chiseling, scoring or scraping.

- Never use an extension bar such as a length of pipe to increase leverage on a wrench. This could result in breakage of the wrench and personal injury.

- Ball-peen hammers of appropriate size or hand-drilling hammers should be used to strike chisels, punches and star drills. Do not use the claw hammer.

- Never use a C-clamp for hoisting or for supporting a scaffold or platform or for securing a load that may be carried on a vehicle or a truck.

- Remember, one tool is not enough. There are many types of wrenches, pliers, screwdrivers, hammers, etc., each suitable for a specific job. Your selection should include an assortment of each of the commonly used hand tools plus a pair of safety goggles.

Tips on wood splitting

With cold weather fast approaching, owners of wood-burning stoves and fireplaces are beginning to stockpile their winter supply of firewood.

For some people, getting wood is easy. Just call someone who sells it. Others, perhaps out of a commitment to a do-it-yourself spirit, prefer to cut their own.

The Hand Tools Institute has some safety tips for such people.

The institute, an association of tool manufacturers, said that people who think all that is needed to cut wood is brute strength should think again.

Certain rules must be followed to do a safe wood splitting job. Foremost, the institute said, safety goggles should be worn at all times to prevent injury to the eyes from flying chips of metal or wood.

Perhaps one of the most common misconceptions among many wood splitters is that it is correct to strike the wood splitting wedge with the flat striking face of the axe. Axes are not intended to withstand the blow and the possibility of metal chip fragmentation is very high.

Instead, woodcutters should use a woodchopper's maul or a double-faced sledge of six pounds or heavier.

Axes are used to fell or trim trees and split and cut wood with their cutting edge. Their striking face may be used to drive soft materials, like wood or plastic stakes, but should never be used against woodsplitting steel wedges. This precaution will not only help prevent injury but will also lengthen the life of the tool.

Woodsplitting wedges are necessary when the cutting edge of the axe will not do the job. This is normally the case when the diameter of the wood to be split is too large or the length of the wood is too long. In this case, it is recommended that a starting notch be made with the cutting edge of the maul. By inserting the wedge and tapping lightly to ensure the wedge is firmly in place, the wood can be easily split.

The splitter should position himself so his weight is well balanced to strike the wedge squarely with the face of the maul or sledgehammer. Avoid glancing blows as they can send the wedge flying.

HTI recommends the splitter occasionally examine the tool for chip cracks or excessive wear. The splitter should also rest frequently as fatigue can result in a miscalculated swing.

SELL IT AGAIN, SAM!

When we sell a house, we sometimes have to "sell" it again and again before the contract is actually signed by the buyers and sellers.

Many things have to occur before the closing. The house must be "sold" to the buyers' relatives, the home inspector, the appraiser, and other experts. The buyers must secure a mortgage. Sometime during the process, the buyers may go through a serious case of "buyers' remorse" and consider backing out of the transaction. Since the transaction could potentially fall through at any step in the process, you will find the services of a professional Realtor invaluable.

We continue to present the house in the best light possible and use our professional skills to solve any problems that may arise.

Ceiling fans, holiday light fixtures unique, useful gifts

Does the Christmas gift list have you stumped again this year? Look up for inspiration.

For a gift that's both unique and useful, check out ceiling fans. Ceiling fans are wonderfully practical gifts because they are useful year-round, and they are a perfect choice for the "hard-to-buy-for" on your list. And because there are so many styles of fans to choose from, they make a surprisingly personal gift as well.

Ceiling fans are truly a gift for all seasons. Everyone knows that ceiling fans are great in the summer, but they're also beneficial in the winter. Operated in a clockwise direction, they circulate warm air downward, making the room more comfortable and helping reduce energy costs by up to 10 percent.

Know any baseball fans? Get them a Baseball Fan. Hunter Fan Company's Baseball Fan is a whimsical tribute to the national pastime. With blades shaped like bats, a globe that resembles a baseball and a housing that's made to look like a mitt, this fan is a hit with any baseball aficionado. It has a 20-year warranty and it's also affordable, with a suggested retail price of $99.

For those who fancy flight, Hunter makes two exciting ceiling fans. The 48-inch Snoopy Action Fan features everyone's favorite beagle flying his Sopwith Camel bi-plane. The fan, which looks like the propeller of Snoopy's plane, comes with a lightweight 7-foot applique that attaches to the ceiling. This highly durable fan is designed to circulate air in rooms up to 225 square feet. The suggested retail price is $199.

The other fan which appeals to aviation buffs is the Fantasy Flyer. Made to resemble the Corsair F4U fighter plane of World War II fame, the Fantasy Flyer is a 48-inch fan with a lightweight 8-foot applique. It has a 20-year warranty and a suggested retail price of $169.

Want to give a gift that exudes quality? The classic Hunter Original fan is timeless in its style and elegance, and it comes with a lifetime warranty.

The Hunter Original complements almost any decor. It's available in two sizes (42- and 52-inch) as well as several colors and finishes. Like all Hunter fans it has a three-speed reversible motor that moves more air than any comparable priced model. It has a suggested retail price of $345.

Here's an interesting idea for the home enthusiast on your list: start a Christmas tradition by giving them holiday lighting fixtures to adorn their home.

Hunter, which makes more than 250 residential lighting fixtures, has two holiday lamp shades designed for use on chandeliers and wall sconces. One is a Christmas tree pattern that was inspired by fine holiday china. The other is a holly and ribbon pattern in traditional holiday colors. Each sells for about $5 per lamp shade.

Both lamp shade styles are made of durable cloth and are lined to protect against discoloration and heat. The shades measure 4.25 inches tall and 5 inches wide at their base. They have adjustable metal harps that fit most any standard light bulb.

Snoopy's Action Fan™, a 48 inch low profile ceiling fan from Hunter Fan Company, has three flame tempered wood and aluminum blades resembling propellers. The famous Peanuts® character and his plane are a durable, lightweight applique that mounts between the fan and the ceiling.

Be inspired in your holiday gift giving this year. Look up for inspiration. Ceiling fans and light fixtures are guaranteed to brighten Christmas for your friends and family.

For more information about ceiling fans, visit Hunter Fan Company's Web site address at <http://www.hunterfan.com> or call 1-800-4HUNTER for a free brochure and location of your nearest dealer.

National Arbor Day Foundation readies for 125th

The National Arbor Day Foundation has announced a special 125th anniversary edition of its popular "Celebrate Arbor Day" information packet.

The packet features an information booklet with suggestions for communities, schools, and individuals to celebrate the historic anniversary of one of America's—and the world's—most important holidays, Arbor Day.

Sample proclamations, reproducible graphics, quotes, plays, poems, and songs are included in the packet. It also features tree-planting instructions and fundraising suggestions.

Arbor Day was the idea of J. Sterling Morton, a pioneer, journalist, and orator who settled in Nebraska in the mid-1800s. His personal mission was to introduce orchards and forests to the vast treeless prairie, and he accomplished his goal with the establishment of Arbor Day in 1872. More than a million trees were planted in Nebraska on that first Arbor Day, and by 1890 Arbor Day was celebrated in every state, making it one of the oldest formalized conservation observations in the world.

Arbor Day will celebrate 125 years of successful tree planting and environmental stewardship during 1997, a fitting tribute to a man with a vision who wrote, "Other holidays repose upon the past; Arbor Day proposes for the future."

The National Arbor Day Foundation encourages people in schools and communities across the country to begin planning now for the 1997 Arbor Day celebration. Many states celebrate Arbor Day on the last Friday in April which is National Arbor Day; other states set the date to coincide with better times to plant trees in their climate. The Foundation's "Celebrate Arbor Day" booklet includes the date for each state.

"Arbor Day is even more important now than in Morton's day," Cohn Rosenow, National Arbor Day Foundation president, said. "The Earth's forest cover has been reduced by about one-third, and serious forest destruction continues. Damage to life-sustaining ecosystems jeopardizes our own future and that of generations who will follow us."

"The trees we plant and care for now will fight pollution, conserve energy, cool and beautify cities, increase property values, and give wildlife a home for years to come. Arbor Day offers an opportunity to celebrate the bounty of trees; young and old alike can take positive, personal action to make our world a better place by planting trees."

With a million members, the National Arbor Day Foundation is the world's largest tree-planting environmental organization. It was founded for the 100th anniversary of Arbor Day in 1972, and celebrates its 25th anniversary in 1997.

To get your own free information packet about how to celebrate the 125th anniversary of Arbor Day, send your name and address to "Celebrate Arbor Day," The National Arbor Day Foundation, Nebraska City, NE 68410.

Topsy Turvy dolls have two heads, two arms, one body and no legs. The skirt reverses to cover or uncover the desired head.

The idea seems to have started in 1899, when Dewitt Bouton patented a Topsy Turvy doll. In 1901, Albert Bruckner of Jersey City, N.J., and New York City patented an improved type of cloth doll head. His patent information appears on many Topsy Turvy dolls. The dolls were usually made with one white head and one black head, but other combinations were also made.

Two-headed dolls could laugh or cry, or have a girl head and the head of her pet. One Topsy Turvy was Little Red Ridinghood and her grandma, another Jack and Jill, another Cinderella dressed in rags or in silk. One strange doll was the Goddess of Liberty and an Uncle Sam cat, complete with a meow sound. Versions of the Topsy Turvy dolls are still being made.

Q. When did "butterfly" jewelry become popular? I have several pieces of silver jewelry set with a bright blue butterfly wing under a piece of glass. Dealers tell me the jewelry is made from tropical butterflies. No one seems to know the history.

A. Beetles, butterflies and other insects were used in 19th-century jewelry. The blue butterfly wing pieces were at the height of their popularity in the 1920s and '30s. It is said that Thomas Mott displayed his jewelry at the British Empire Exhibition in 1924. That started the fad.

Most of the blue wings came from the South American morpho. The wings were sealed under glass that was set in a sterling silver or gold frame. One type had small colored pictures under the glass with the wings. Others used silvery-white sulfide figures.

The popularity of the bright blue jewelry tempted others to make pseudo butterfly wing pieces using colored foil, plastic or colored bird feathers. Makers who sometimes marked their butterfly jewelry from the '20s and '30s were the English firms of Thomas L. Mott Ltd., Henry W. King & Son, and Owen Brothers, and H.S. & J.E. Crisson, of Bermuda.

Baby boomers will still dominate housing market

"As it has for more than 25 years, the baby boom generation, which includes people born from 1946 to 1964, will dominate the housing market between 1995 and 1999, prompting builders to gear new home production primarily toward trade-up demand," reported Gilbert "Buzz" Silverman, president of the Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan and of The Silverman Companies in Farmington Hills.

Starter home markets will have to adjust to a continuing decline in the number of young adults, reflecting the post-1964 "baby bust." At the same time, the baby boom and bust cycle that occurred earlier in the century will mean slow growth in the active retirement market, but accelerated growth in the frail elderly market.

These are just some of the findings in a new analysis, "The Future of Home Building," which was recently published by the National Association of Home Builders (NAHB).

In that report, NAHB projected that housing starts will average 1.4 million units per year during the remainder of the decade and noted that growth in new households will account for about 80 percent of demand for new homes. Other demand for new homes will come from a number of factors including the need to replace units lost from the stock and demand for second homes.

Other principal findings about demand and demographics include:

- Immigration will account for about one-third of household growth, but initially most immigrants will go to a limited number of metropolitan areas in California, New York, Florida and Texas.

- Married couples will account for a declining share of households, but will still comprise about three-quarters of new home buyers.

- Although the share of married-couple households with children will decline, more families will have teenage children.

- In trading up, many buyers will favor homes with customized features and greater privacy from their adolescent children.

- Increasing participation by women in the labor force and further narrowing of the gap between the earnings of men and women will generate more demand for homes that accommodate the time-constrained lifestyles of dual-earner couples.

- Demographic changes will raise the home-ownership rate, but barriers to ownership will remain a problem of new homes.

- Growing demand for trade-up homes will raise the average size and price of new homes.

- Demand for second homes will increase as baby boomers reach the peak ages for buying second homes.

- As the young adult population declines, owners of multifamily housing will reposition their product to appeal to middle-aged tenants.

Radon — invisible ghost

Do your kids check under the bed for lurking ghosts before bedtime? Do you then look under the bed and tell them not to worry? You may be wrong — radon may be lurking around your home and under your bed.

Radon is our nation's second leading cause of lung cancer and is the leading cause among non-smokers. Radon exposure is estimated to be responsible for thousands of deaths each year. It is projected that 12 percent of Michigan residents have potential radon problems.

Radon is a naturally occurring, colorless and odorless gas. It can enter your home through cracks in the foundation, service openings (sewer, water and sump pumps) and other openings in the structure (crawl space). Exposure to high levels of radon can lead to an increased risk of lung cancer.

The American Lung Association of Michigan urges you to protect yourself and your family from lung cancer by testing your home for radon. Radon testing is easy and inexpensive. Like a ghost, you cannot see or hear radon. Don't let radon haunt your house — test for radon!

Take the time to educate yourself on the dangers of radon. For additional information about radon, call your local American Lung Association of Michigan office at (800) LUNG-USA or the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality at (800) RADON-GAS. Test your home for radon today.

Household Help

By John Amantea

Q. I am remodeling a spare room in my finished basement. The existing closet in the room has a large opening made for sliding doors. There aren't any previous tracks at either the top or bottom of the opening to hang the sliding doors. Can you explain how I should do this?

A. I am assuming that there was previously a pair of sliding doors in that large opening. If so, it will serve as a benchmark or foundation to begin your work.

Start by going to your local home decorating center's finished doors department. You must have the exact dimensions of the opening so that one of their reps can help you. After you have given the assistant the sizes, you can now decide on what type of wood and color to choose. You will also have to purchase some material and hardware to accomplish your job. Ask for one length of track (for the top only), a pair of wheels with the carrier, a channel, an aligner and a pair of vertical glides.

Once you have the doors and hardware, you can begin to measure for the upper track installation. Each track has two rows or channels so that the doors won't collide with each other. After you accurately measure and install the track with screws, be sure that it is installed securely. Now, install both wheels and carriers on the doors and also place them evenly apart. This will give you the necessary balance when the doors slide on the track. Hang the innermost door first, and tilt the top away from you so that the roller wheels will catch the lips on the track. You can now hang the other door on the front channel in the same way.

If you purchased an aligner plate, you can judge its position from the way both doors are suspended. Install the plate firmly to the floor with the screws provided. Also install the vertical guides and check the doors' operation. They should flow easily on the tracks and not bind. Most of the wheels that are purchased should have adjusting screws, if needed to use. Apply a thin coat of paraffin on the tracks at least twice a year for a smoother operation.

Q. I have a beautiful glass block wall between my family room and the fully enclosed porch. Recently, one glass block accidentally cracked and looks very unattractive. In addition to this, some of the lines of mortar between the blocks have loosened a little. Can you give me any advice on how to replace one glass block and also how to regrout the mortar lines?

A. This may sound quite unusual to you but you'll have to break the glass in that one block even more. Actually, you have to do this in order to remove it without doing damage to the surrounding blocks.

The best method is to get an old, thick towel and a hammer. Before you strike the glass, be sure that you wear eye goggles and a pair of work gloves. First, start on one side of the wall and then go to the other. Merely give the glass a hard strike at dead center and then you can chip away until you reach about an inch from the edge. Next, with the aid of a putty knife, hammer the tip into the mortar and clear away the mortar. Be sure to clean the mortar to the edge and use extreme caution. Of course, do the same on the opposite side of the wall.

Begin by spreading about a 1/4-inch layer of mortar on all sides of the surrounding blocks on the wall and on the new glass block. Next, lay two dowels (about 3/8" in diameter) directly under each corner edge of the block. Now slide the block and dowels into the open space and smooth out the bead around the glass. Once the mortar is set, slide out the dowels and fill in the holes.

In reference to repairing the loose mortar around some of the blocks, with a damp sponge, moisten the existing mortar. With a small putty knife, spread the new mortar until it surfaces with the glass. Also, use a damp sponge to remove any excess mortar from the glass blocks.

Gas hearth sales hot

A swiftly increasing number of homeowners are discovering the vast advantages of gas stoves, fireplace inserts and fireplaces. With no wood to chop and haul, with no ashes and no mess, gas hearth appliances are taking the nation by storm.

Convenience and ambiance, as well as fuel efficient gas or propane operation, are keys to the popularity of these products.

What could be more convenient than firelight and adjustable flames at the touch of a button, wall thermostat or remote control? Or precision-tuned warmth to suit the seasons?

From an aesthetic standpoint, dancing golden flames, glowing embers and "split and seasoned" logs re-create the authenticity of a wood-fueled hearth to a tee. Designs range from traditional wood stove or fireplace insert look-alikes, to flush-to-the-wall fireplaces, to dramatic two-, three-, even four-sided models. Construction materials include steel, cast iron, which in many cases can have a porcelain enamel coating added, and heat-retentive soapstone.

Gas hearth appliances are tested and certified to one of three standards: decorative, heater or wall furnace. If you live in a warm climate or are in the market for aesthetics alone, a decorative model should suit your needs. For high efficiency and heat output, look to heater and furnace rated models with efficiencies of up to well over 80 percent.

Depending on the heating capacity of the model you choose, you can "zone heat" one or two key living areas or heat your entire home. With all this going for it, this hearth option is being integrated into virtually every room in the home. Gas appliances vent vertically, through the roof, or horizontally, through the wall.

The latter option is termed "direct-vent" and is especially popular among builders and architects, because no conventional chimney system is required, reducing labor and material costs alike. Direct-vent models also lend themselves especially well to home remodeling projects.

Gas hearth appliances with standing pilots can be operated during power outages. Those with electronic ignition, while saving

A. I am assuming that there was previously a pair of sliding doors in that large opening. If so, it will serve as a benchmark or foundation to begin your work.

Start by going to your local home decorating center's finished doors department. You must have the exact dimensions of the opening so that one of their reps can help you. After you have given the assistant the sizes, you can now decide on what type of wood and color to choose. You will also have to purchase some material and hardware to accomplish your job. Ask for one length of track (for the top only), a pair of wheels with the carrier, a channel, an aligner and a pair of vertical guides.

Once you have the doors and hardware, you can begin to measure for the upper track installation. Each track has two rows or channels so that the doors won't collide with each other. After you accurately measure and install the track with screws, be sure that it is installed securely. Now, install both wheels and carriers on the doors and also place them evenly apart. This will give you the necessary balance when the doors slide on the track. Hang the innermost door first, and tilt the top away from you so that the roller wheels will catch the lips on the track. You can now hang the other door on the front channel in the same way.

If you purchased an aligner plate, you can judge its position from the way both doors are suspended. Install the plate firmly to the floor with the screws provided. Also install the vertical guides and check the doors' operation. They should flow easily on the tracks and not bind. Most of the wheels that are purchased should have adjusting screws, if needed to use. Apply a thin coat of parafin on the tracks at least twice a year for a smoother operation.

Q. I have a beautiful glass block wall between my family room and the fully enclosed porch. Recently, one glass block accidentally cracked and looks very unattractive. In addition to this, some of the lines of mortar between the blocks have loosened a little. Can you give me any advice on how to replace one glass block and also how to regrout the mortar lines?

A. This may sound quite unusual to you but you'll have to break the glass in that one block even more. Actually, you have to do this in order to remove it without doing damage to the surrounding blocks.

The best method is to get an old, thick towel and a hammer. Before you strike the glass, be sure that you wear eye goggles and a pair of work gloves. First, start on one side of the wall and then go to the other. Merely give the glass a hard strike at dead center and then you can chip away until you reach about an inch from the edge. Next, with the aid of a putty knife, hammer the tip into the mortar and clear away the mortar. Be sure to clean the mortar to the edge and use extreme caution. Of course, do the same on the opposite side of the wall.

Begin by spreading about a 1/4-inch layer of mortar on all sides of the surrounding blocks on the wall and on the new glass block. Next, lay two dowels (about 3/8" in diameter) directly under each corner edge of the block. Now slide the block and dowels into the open space and smooth out the bead around the glass. Once the mortar is set, slide out the dowels and fill in the holes.

In reference to repairing the loose mortar around some of the blocks, with a damp sponge, moisten the existing mortar. With a small putty knife, spread the new mortar until it surfaces with the glass. Also, use a damp sponge to remove any excess mortar from the glass blocks.

Gas hearth sales hot

A swiftly increasing number of homeowners are discovering the vast advantages of gas stoves, fireplace inserts and fireplaces. With no wood to chop and haul, with no ashes and no mess, gas hearth appliances are taking the nation by storm.

Convenience and ambiance, as well as fuel efficient gas or propane operation, are keys to the popularity of these products.

What could be more convenient than firelight and adjustable flames at the touch of a button, wall thermostat or remote control? Or precision-tuned warmth to suit the seasons?

From an aesthetic standpoint, dancing golden flames, glowing embers and "split and seasoned" logs re-create the authenticity of a wood-fueled hearth to a tee. Designs range from traditional wood stove or fireplace insert look-alikes, to flush-to-the-wall fireplaces, to dramatic two-, three-, even four-sided models. Construction materials include steel, cast iron, which in many cases can have a porcelain enamel coating added, and heat-retentive soapstone.

Gas hearth appliances are tested and certified to one of three standards: decorative, heater or wall furnace. If you live in a warm climate or are in the market for aesthetics alone, a decorative model should suit your needs. For high efficiency and heat output, look to heater and furnace rated models with efficiencies of up to well over 80 percent.

Depending on the heating capacity of the model you choose, you can "zone heat" one or two key living areas or heat your entire home. With all this going for it, this hearth option is being integrated into virtually every room in the home. Gas appliances vent vertically, through the roof, or horizontally, through the wall.

The latter option is termed "direct-vent" and is especially popular among builders and architects, because no conventional chimney system is required, reducing labor and material costs alike. Direct-vent models also lend themselves especially well to home remodeling projects.

Gas hearth appliances with standing pilots can be operated during power outages. Those with electronic ignition, while saving

An inviting roof design and wide porch give this home curb appeal. The activity room is vaulted and directly open to the kitchen and dining area. This spacious area encourages relaxed gatherings. A bay window drenches the rooms in sunshine, while the creative angular design of the counters make the rooms flow together.

BONUS ROOM FLOOR PLAN

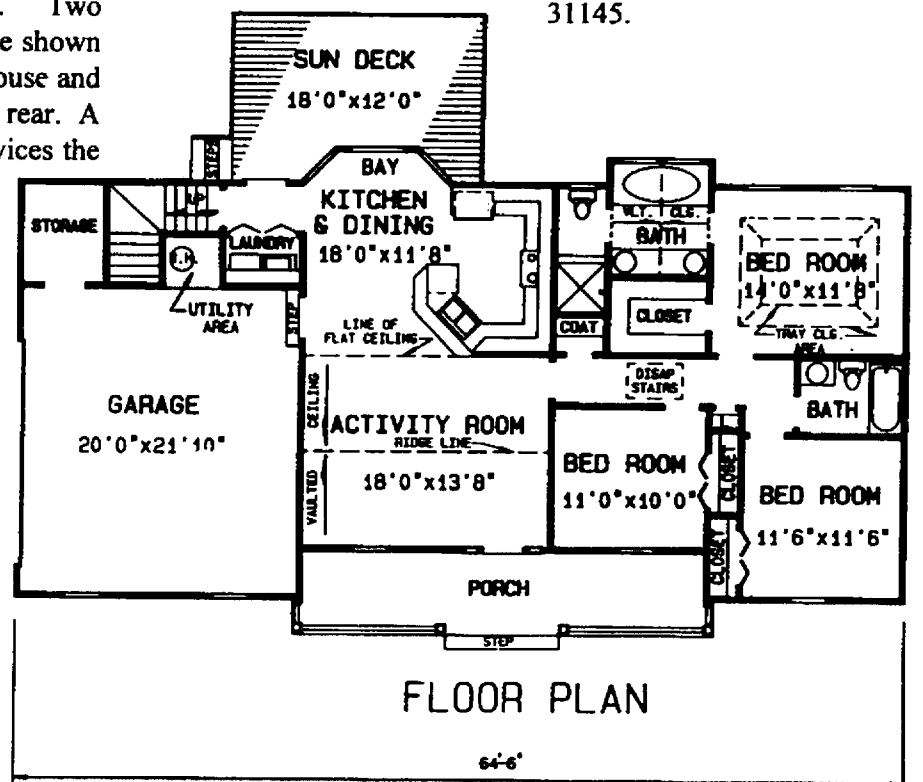

A laundry room is indicated in this area.

The bonus room allows plenty of optional living space. This room can be finished as the home is constructed or at a later date, and is accessible from a stair behind the garage.

The sleeping wing is secluded for privacy. Two family bed rooms are shown on the front of the house and a master suite on the rear. A central hall bath services the family bed rooms.

The master suite is shown with tray ceiling in the bed room and a vaulted ceiling the garden bath, which has a dual vanity. A luxurious walk-in closet is adjacent.

Plan number 298 includes 1,294 square feet of heated living space and the bonus room will add an additional 374 square feet when it is finished. For further information, write W. D. Farmer Residence Designer, Inc., P. O. Box 450025, Atlanta, GA 31145.

on the cost of keeping the pilot lit during the heating season, will not function without electricity.

Today's gas hearth appliances make the most of America's most popular heating fuel, with all the joys of a wood-fueled hearth without the work.

Moving to a smaller home? What do you take?

You want to be free of the demands of a big house. Once you have made the decision to sell your big house and move to a smaller apartment, condo or home, you have to decide what to keep and what to give away or sell.

Experts suggest taking only the best of your belongings and the best of your memories with you. To accomplish this, according to Cheryl Krysiak of the Michigan State University Extension Service, you will have to be organized and ruthless.

To begin, list the best furniture in each room. Look for ways to use favorite pieces in new ways. For example, your grandmother's dresser, with the mirror removed, could serve as a buffet, a small table as a desk, or a nightstand as an end table. Make the furniture you keep do multiple duties. A buffet can hold many things besides china and silver.

Consider the scale of your new quarters. A few large pieces of furniture will add weight, height and impact. Too many pieces, large or small, will appear cluttered.

Begin using your best things regularly. If not now, when will you enjoy them? If you never use something, give it away or sell it.

In your kitchen be ruthless. How many gelatin molds, mixing bowls and baking pans do you really need? If you haven't used something in years, why keep it?

Bed and bath linens must be sorted. Keep three sets of everything and get rid of the rest. If you eventually need new items, buy them.

Books are expensive to move and hard to store. Keep your favorites; sell, give away, or donate the rest.

Pack and move only clothing that you wear, that fits and that you like. Forget what that suit cost new — if you don't wear it don't pack it.

If you are a collector — keep one collection intact. Get rid of the rest of your collections.

Be selective when sorting mementos. Keep anything that means home to you. A keepsake from your grandparents or parents, that you cannot bear to part with should be kept. Some items you treasure may be given to family members or friends. This is also an opportunity to share your family's history with the next generation.

Sort the rest into items your family members or friends may want to have, and things no one wants and you don't want to inflict on anyone you know. Remember that ugly wedding gift you've kept for years — now is the time to donate or sell it and you have a perfect excuse!

After you have sorted everything, and your family and friends have taken what they want, you may donate the rest to charity, have a garage sale, or consider a consignment shop or estate auction. Toss everything that's pure junk.

Forget what you leave behind. Those items were part of your past. You enjoyed them, but it is time to move on. Use the best of your belongings, cherish the best of your memories and get ready for the adventure of a new life in a new home.
